

Chinese Hopes Rise After 10 Months' Strife

Japanese are Facing Possibility of New Major Defeat
MACHINE STALLED
Half of Area in South Shantung Reported Recaptured

By the Associated Press
The war in the Orient ends its tenth month today with China's legions resisting and even striking back at Japan's mechanized power with increasing vigor and hope of ultimate victory.

For four months the previously rapid spread of Japanese conquest over the map of China has been stalled. Recently on the main war front in southern Shantung province the Chinese have assumed the offensive. Japan has suffered one major defeat. Another seems possible.

Neutral observers are wondering whether a turning of the tide—one of the great tides of history, Japan's expansion—may not be at hand.

Figures Inaccurate
Before they were stalled, Japan's armies had overrun approximately 400,000 square miles of Chinese territory. Japan's aviation had carried war's horrors still further, along the whole extent of China's coast and for 1,000 miles inland.

Hundreds of thousands have been killed, more than one million probably have been wounded or are missing; tens of millions have been made homeless or destitute. Japanese reticence to disclose their costs and lack of adequate Chinese machinery to tally the losses make accurate counts impossible.

The war has sent probably 500,000 Japanese soldiers to the continent, to be confronted by twice or three times their numbers. It has tightened the clamp of authoritarian rule on both sides. It has put a Japanese war blockade on China's coasts and involved Japan in wrangles with the United States and other powers.

Three Phases
Confronted by the prospect of a disastrous failure to achieve complete victory in China, Japan still is afraid to throw her entire complete strength into the struggle.

The war has had three distinct phases since its genesis in an exchange of shots in the dark on the night of July 7, 1937, at Marco Polo bridge, west of Peking.

First was the comparatively easy Japanese overrunning of nearly all north China. Next came the bitter Shanghai-Nanking phase, ending with the fall of Nanking, the Chinese capital, Dec. 13. Finally, the subsequent phase of stalemate on the major front and relatively unimportant fighting on the far fringes.

Chinese hope a new phase of victory for them has opened.

Their military losses have been tremendous, estimated in Hankow, their new capital, at roughly one million killed and wounded. In January the Japanese army said its casualties had been only 20,000.

Material destruction has approached if not passed a billion American dollars.

The war seems to have transformed China from a post-war chaos to something like a unified nation. Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek has rallied nearly all elements, including even his arch-enemies, the communists, to China's fight for existence.

A catalogue of Japan's conquests: Shanghai, Peking, Tientsin, Nanking, Hangchow.

Both Sides Tired
Nearly all the five northern provinces—Hopen, Chahar, Suiyuan, Shansi, Shantung—were considered her first objective.

Large portions of Kiangsu, Chekiang, Anhwei and Honan provinces.

But in most cases conquest has been merely an overrunning, and Japan now holds little more than the big cities and main railways in

Hoover Maps 11-Point Plan For Recovery

Urges Administration to Quit 'Dangerous Road For Democracy'

SPEAKS IN OKLAHOMA

Outlines Proposals for 'Saner and More Cheerful Road'

Okla. City—(AP)—Herbert Hoover presented to the nation today an 11-point attack upon depression and called upon the Roosevelt administration to abandon what he termed "a dangerous road for democracy."

The former president was enroute to New York by train after delivering one of a series of major addresses here last night at a "grass roots" convention of Oklahoma Republicans, attended by more than 7,500 persons.

In the speech, which was broadcast nationally, Hoover again assailed New Deal policies and warned: "We have been following that dangerous road for democracy that led to disaster in Europe."

Raps New Deal
Declaring that "despite every alibi, this depression is the direct result of governmental actions," Hoover asserted the New Deal "proposes to travel further down this dangerous road."

"And," he said firmly, "we are not going down that road without more fighting free speech."

For "a start on a saner and more cheerful road," he outlined as "practical steps":

"1. Re-establish confidence that there will be no more attacks upon the safeguards of free men. That is the independence of congress and of the courts."

"2. Restore common morals and intellectual morals in government. In a democracy or in a Christian country the ends do not justify any means."

"3. Abandon this economy of scarcity and go in for production, work and thrift."

Stop Spending
"4. Stop this spending and inflation and pump-priming."

"5. Revise the taxes so as to free the initiative and enterprise of men."

"6. Reduce relief expenditures by one-third, through decentralizing its administration. Take it out of the hands of 'wasters and politicians and put it back into non-political hands."

Three Persons Die In Fire Tragedy

Fourth Victim in Critical Condition at Waukesha

Waukesha—(AP)—Three persons were dead today and a fourth in critical condition as a result of a fire which late yesterday destroyed a one-story frame cottage on the western outskirts of the city.

The victims were a young mother, Mrs. Henrietta Luehman, 21, her year-and-a-half-old daughter, Gertrude, and the woman's father, Leonard Schultz, 52.

They, with Mrs. Luehman's sister, Fern Schultz, 16, were trapped after kerosene thrown on a fire exploded and a 25-mile wind quickly transformed the little home into a blazing inferno.

Mrs. Luehman and the child died in flames. Schultz, who dived through a window pane, his clothing ablaze, died early today at the municipal hospital. Firemen rescued Fern, who also was badly burned.

Mrs. Luehman's husband, Otto, was at work at a factory when the explosion occurred.

Ponders Jurisdiction
In Trial of Transient
Madison—(AP)—Circuit Judge A. C. Hoppmann took under advisement today the question of whether he should compel Superior Judge Roy H. Proctor to preside at the trial of Roy Stevens, 39, a transient charged with murder and robbery.

Judge Proctor turned the case over to Franklin W. Clarke, a justice of the peace, yesterday after Stevens' attorney, Darrell D. McIntyre, had filed an affidavit of prejudice against him. District Attorney Lyall T. Beggs obtained a writ demanding that Judge Proctor show cause why he should not retain jurisdiction. Proctor did not appear in court today at the hour scheduled for hearing on the writ.

Instead his clerk filed an answer stating that his assignment of the case to Clarke was not subject to court review.

Judge Hoppmann, before whom the order to show cause was returnable, heard arguments by Beggs and McIntyre and then instructed them to file briefs. Judge Proctor said he did not plan to submit a brief.

Portage County Board Favors Speed Limit
Stevens Point—(AP)—The Portage county board of supervisors today went on record in favor of establishing a speed limit on Wisconsin highways and copies of a resolution it adopted will be mailed to Governor Philip F. LaFollette, State Senator Herman J. Severson, Assemblyman John Kostuck and the Wisconsin County Boards' association.

Must Make Choice Between Blindness, Death for Infant

Chicago—(AP)—An ailing baby rested in a hospital crib today while her heartbroken parents weighed a choice between blindness or death.

An operation probably would save the life but kill the sight of Helaine Judith Colan, 5 weeks old, medical men agreed. They predicted that without an operation, glaucoma, a tumor affliction from which the infant suffers, would take the child's life in two months.

Dr. and Mrs. Herman Colan, the parents, also considered a slim possibility of saving part of the infant's sight by removing one eye and treating the other with X-ray.

"Existence of the tumor first was suspected by Dr. Morris Hersman, maternal grandfather of the infant. Several specialists confirmed the diagnosis but were divided on what course should be followed."

"I read the possibility that my baby someday might be left to the care of strangers in a sightless world," said Dr. Colan, a 30-year-old dentist. "I can't decide. I don't know what to do."

Extra Deputy Plan For Drive on Slot Machines Is Lost

Tie Vote by Supervisors Fails to Give Proposal Majority

A proposal for two sheriff's deputies to enforce the law against gambling devices in the county was lost at this morning's session of the county board when a report of District Attorney Raymond P. Dohr, embodying the recommendation, met a tie vote, 20 to 20.

The tie vote was cast after a proposal to lay the matter over until the August session was lost by a vote of 23 to 12.

The district attorney was asked earlier in the week by the board to make a recommendation for strict enforcement of the law against slot machines. In this recommendation Mr. Dohr pointed out that his duty was to prosecute violations of the law and that enforcement was up to the sheriff, constables, marshals, police forces and the supervisors.

"I am willing to cooperate to the fullest extent with police officers should any complaints be brought in," the recommendation read.

Part Time Work
It further suggested that the deputies be not employed full time and that they be paid only when called in for service. The recommendation was made following a conference with Sheriff John Lappen.

Supervisor Jess Lathrop, Horolonia, said he saw no need for hiring extra deputies to enforce the law. Supervisor John Vande Yacht, Little

Large Distributors Cut Milk Price in Chicago

Chicago—(AP)—Three of Chicago's largest dairy distributors today reduced milk prices on quart bottles from 13 to 12 cents, effective tomorrow.

The reduction followed an announcement of a cut in the price paid farmers. The Pure Milk association, controlling most of the milk supplied to the metropolitan area, announced the reduction, effective today.

The new price scale calls for the payment of approximately $1.75 a hundred pounds as compared with the April price of $2.05. Producers received $2.35 during the last three months of 1937.

Paul Potter of the associated milk dealers said Chicago distributors would meet to consider a reduction of one cent per quart in the delivered price of milk today. The current price is 13 cents.

BULLETIN

Washington—(AP)—A house appropriations subcommittee after inserting provisions which would limit President Roosevelt's discretion in relief spending, approved today the administration's huge spending-lending bill. Chairman Woodrum (D-Vo.) said: "The subcommittee will report a bill embodying the essential recommendations of the president."

The major recommendations were a $1,250,000,000 relief appropriation and a $1,000,000,000 public works program.

U. S. Chamber Asks Support For Program

Commerce Body Wants New Employer Relations With Labor

WAGNER ACT HIT

Washington—(AP)—The United States Chamber of Commerce began a nationwide campaign today to win support for a business improvement program based on a minimum of government regulation and on new employer relations with labor.

President George H. Davis of Kansas City, Mo., said just before the chamber's annual convention closed: "The real benefit of this meeting will come in how well you apply it locally."

He spoke after the delegates adopted resolutions asking a re-examination of all federal measures for industrial aid, "because efforts of government and business for recovery from the disastrous depression of the last eight years have fallen short in their objectives."

Propose Investigations
The resolutions proposed congressional investigations of the Wagner labor act, under which the national labor relations board functions, and of the railroad problem.

The labor resolution advocated outright repeal of the Wagner act or, failing that, extensive amendments.

"We believe the prime consideration of the federal government," it said, "should always be to maintain impartiality as between employer and employees, and as between different types of labor organizations."

Davis, who was reelected president, said in his parting remarks that the national chamber of commerce would try to sign 1,000,000 business men as supporters of its campaign inaugurated some months ago under the slogan "what helps business helps you."

The resolutions, adopted unanimously by the delegates, offered no general criticism of the Roosevelt administration but inferentially recommended abandonment of wage-hour legislation, one of the president's major objectives.

Labor Relations
"There should be only such public regulation," the statement said, "as may be validly applied by state governments to those special classes of workers for which legislative protection may be necessary to prevent their oppression and to safeguard their health and well-being."

On the broad questions of labor-management relations, the delegates declared: "Management and labor should work together without recourse to the federal government on those things of common concern which fairly conserve their respective interests, promote industrial peace and stimulate employment on which the prosperity of the country depends."

Chamberlain's Party Loses Bye-Election

London—(AP)—The national government of Neville Chamberlain today lost a third bye-election to the labor party despite the fact that cabinet ministers for the first time in six years were permitted to make speeches in support of the government candidate.

C. C. Poole, 35-year-old railway clerk, was elected to the house of commons from the Lichfield constituency near Birmingham. Over G. E. Craddock, government candidate, by a majority of 826.

"No longer can Mr. Chamberlain say the people of Britain share his childlike faith in dictators," Poole declared.

Despite this setback the government retains an overwhelming majority in the house of commons, with 415 seats to 195 for the opposition.

Miner's Lamp Blamed for Blast in Pennsylvania

Harrisburg, Pa.—(AP)—The flame from a miner's lamp was blamed by the department of mines today for the St. Clair, Pa., mine explosion April 27 which claimed eight lives. The inspectors reported the miner responsible was killed instantly, but they did not name him.

Chief Risch called out 12 reserves and flung the ties from the tracks. As the engine moved in, the pickets lay across the rails. Police dispersed them after a small scuffle, and the car of goods was removed.

Petition Signed to Force Debate on Wage-Hour Bill

Republicans Plan To Launch Attack On 'Pump-Priming'

Snell Assails Administration Measure as 'Just a Crime'

Washington—(AP)—House Republicans will assemble next week in their first party conference of the session. Minority Leader Snell of New York said today, to organize a campaign against the administration's "pump-priming" legislation.

Calling the measure "just a crime," Snell contended the administration's "primary purpose is to use it for direct effect on the congressional elections this fall."

He said even those Republicans who might vote ultimately for the bill probably would attempt to "carve" funds for specific uses. They also were certain to renew their demand that administration of relief be returned to the states.

Major Provisions
The major provisions of the measure contemplate a $1,250,000,000 relief appropriation and a billion-dollar public works program.

A house appropriations subcommittee looked over the first draft of the bill today.

Administrative costs of the vast spending-lending program have been estimated at $141,053,000. The largest administrative amounts were $55,000,000 for WPA, $21,142,973 for the Works Progress Administration, $20,000,000 for PWA and $18,000,000 for the farm security administration.

Republican members of the subcommittee, Representative Bacon (R-N. Y.) said, are considering amendments which would prevent creation of new agencies and forbid the use of any funds for projects that would compete with private industry. Bacon said the later amendment would be aimed at PWA-financed power plants.

"Of course, the reason the president has opposed earmarking any funds," Snell said, "is that he just wants to say it was Mr. Roosevelt who gave them to the people and not congress."

"If he gets this money, together with his other powers, he can pretty near force his government reorganization bill through next session. If he gets the money, the reorganization bill and the wage-hour bill, it will be about time to pack congress and tell it to go home."

4 Pickets Nabbed At Stevens Point

Stevens Point, Wis.—(AP)—Chief of Police A. W. Risch ordered the arrest late yesterday of four men in a group of pickets at the strike-bound A. L. Shafton company plant who threw themselves in front of a switch engine to prevent removal of a carload of perishable goods. The men were held on open charges.

Employees of the Shafton company and the Copps company, both wholesale jobbers, went on strike Monday following failure of the A. F. of L. union and the company officials to agree on new contract provisions.

The pickets, about 50 of whom concentrated around the Shafton plant yesterday, earlier balked at an attempt by a switch engine crew, to enter the company yards when they threw ties on the rails.

Chief Risch called out 12 reserves and flung the ties from the tracks. As the engine moved in, the pickets lay across the rails. Police dispersed them after a small scuffle, and the car of goods was removed.

Castilians Advance In Insurgent Drive

Hendaye, France, at the Spanish Frontier—(AP)—Generalissimo Francisco Franco's veteran Castilians fought their way steadily through driving rain toward the main Teruel-Sagunto-Valencia highway today.

Government dispatches said General Jose Milaja's militiamen were withdrawing slowly from their fortified mountain peaks before the insurgent offensive.

The veteran mountain fighters, however, reported they were selling each yard of ground at a high cost of insurgent life.

Dispatches from Valencia reported an insurgent air raid which resulted in a hit upon the French freighter Djem yesterday. The vessel was set afire but casualties in the raid were said to have been few.

Men are Ordered Off Lawe Street Paving Project

Union Charges Koepke Firm Hired Workers From Outside City

Officials of the Appleton Building Trades council early this afternoon ordered union workmen and truckdrivers employed on a paving project near the Lawe street drawbridge to quit work, charging that the Koepke Construction company is not living up to its contract with the city by employing workers who live outside Appleton.

Charles Debenack, president of the council, said he and other labor officials had studied the contract and that it stipulated that only local labor shall be employed.

"About half of the workmen and most of the truckdrivers are from Neenah, Menasha, Oshkosh, and other cities," Debenack said. The Building Trades head said about 30 men in all had been taken off the job.

A check of the contract this afternoon revealed that a special clause provides that only local labor shall be employed except in certain supervisory and skilled jobs and that the construction company must observe union hours and wages.

Debenack further charged that the Koepke Construction company is not abiding by union regulations on hours. The men were ordered off the job about 1 o'clock this afternoon while concrete was being poured near the Riverside Paper Corporation mill. Harold Douglas, president of the truckdrivers union, ordered truckdrivers to cease work about a half hour later.

George Koepke, a member of the construction company, said that the company would "just get more men" and that operations would continue.

Debenack said union officials would call a meeting with city officials to discuss what he termed "breaking of the contract" by the construction firm.

At about 1:45, several trucks hauling gravel to the mixer had been abandoned by drivers and were parked near the scene of operations.

Former Larsen Bank Cashier Is Charged With $8,600 Shortage

Halverson was indicted recently by the Milwaukee federal grand jury on four counts and charged with making false entries in 1936 to conceal shortages. He is being held at Milwaukee.

218 Names Affixed Within 3 Hours After Filing

PASSAGE IS SEEN May 23 Is Earliest Date for Consideration

Washington—(AP)—House members completed a petition today to force house consideration of the revised wage-hour bill.

The 218th signature was affixed less than three hours after the petition was filed. Representative Mouton (D-La.) was the 218th signer.

Signatures of a majority of the 435 members of the house are necessary to petitions discharging house committees from consideration of bills.

Completion of the wage-hour petition relieves the rules committee from further action on the measure and has the effect of bringing the revised wage-hour bill to the house floor for consideration within this month.

Under the rules, the earliest date at which the house can consider the legislation is May 23 and proponents declared passage of the bill was "certain."

Washington—(AP)—Chairman Norton (D-N. J.) of the house labor committee filed a petition immediately after the house convened today to force a house vote on the revised wage-hour bill and within a half hour 100 members had signed.

Sponsors of the petition said there were 188 signatures on the petition within an hour.

Members flocked forward to affix their signatures, 218 of which are required to give the measure a new house test.

A large group of members had gathered in the well of the chamber almost a quarter of an hour before the session began, awaiting a chance to sign. Some of them argued about priority in signing.

It was the second time since last November the membership had been asked to overcome, by the petition method, opposition of the house rules committee to wage-hour legislation.

Rarely Used
Optimistic proponents contended they had "more than enough" signatures pledged to complete the petition today but Mrs. Norton said of 170 names were obtained the first day she would be "tickled to death."

The rarely-used petition method, endorsed in this instance by President Roosevelt, was designed to overcome the opposition of the house rules committee. That group refused last week to give the bill legislative right-of-way.

Sponsors said between 25 and 30 Republicans had agreed to sign. When a similar petition was used to overcome rules committee opposition to the original wage-hour bill last fall, less than 10 Republicans signed.

Republican Discord
Democratic legislators said disension in Republican ranks over the wage-hour measure was an important by-product of the fight. Conservative Republican leaders, they said, wanted to oppose the bill openly, but members from northern industrial districts objected. It was from the latter group that proponents of the legislation hoped to get support to offset southern Democratic opposition.

One of the first evidences of Republican discord came when efforts to call a party conference on strategy failed.

The petition must stay on the calendar seven legislative days after it is completed.

On the eve of the showdown, three farm organizations united in a campaign against the measure. The National Grange, the National Cooperative Council and the National Cooperative Milk Producers' federation, claiming to represent almost 2,000,000 farm families, sent a joint letter to all house members denouncing the legislation as "harmful and demoralizing." They predicted it would boost farmers' living expenses and bankrupt "thousands of these small marginal industries."

Italian Military Show Hints Type Of Future Wars

Chemicals, Flames and Artillery Likely to Play Major Parts

Rome — (AP)—The next European war—if it comes—will be largely a struggle with chemicals, flames and artillery if Premier Mussolini's line-up of armed forces today in honor of Reichsfuehrer Hitler was an indication.

Also, it will be the "totalitarian war" of which the late master strategist, General Erich Ludendorff, wrote, meaning that women and children would be quite as much drafted into service as men.

Mussolini showed his guest a whole "chemical regiment" that sent a shudder through the mass of spectators. The soldiers looked like beings from another planet in their gas masks.

Among their equipment were tanks and compressed air containers. There was, however, assurance for Italians in equipment for fighting fire and disease germs.

Two-Hour Parade A further feature of the impressive two-hour parade was the prominence given to artillery, from machine-guns and anti-aircraft pieces, to heavy cannon. It Duce seemed determined to show his German guest he was not lacking in the gruesome implements of war.

Besides Hitler and his entourage of high Nazis, Mussolini's guests included two former kings, Alfonso of Spain and Amanullah of Afghanistan.

How seriously Mussolini is thinking of future war as "totalitarian" may be judged by the fact that his review included not only regular army units—infantry, cavalry, artillery and colonial—but also small boys, girls in black uniforms, teenage youngsters on horseback, military units of university students and various fascist formations, including the colonial fascist police.

Alpine Troops Nor did he hesitate to incorporate spade-carrying labor camp conscripts in the parade.

An interesting phase of the display was the jaunty march-part of Alpine troops with their rucksacks and skis. Among them one could detect many a Teutonic face from south Tyrol.

When the Alpini passed Hitler looked on gravely, pensively, while Mussolini, who usually explained German formations in his capable German, lapsed into silence.

Both relaxed into smiles soon afterward as the picturesque Bersaglieri trooped by on the run.

All but a few of the parading 30,000 troops made snappy use of the "passo Romano"—the Italian version of the German goosestep. The sore leg muscles of the Italians testified to the pain expended in weeks to make this demonstration of the difficult step impressive.

Hitler Smiles The spectacle of 8-year-old Balilla boys executing the "passo Romano" brought a smile to Hitler's face early in the parade.

Besides 2,500 horses, 600 motor cars, and 320 motorcycles in the parade, 400 tanks, 200 heavy cannon and 400 anti-aircraft guns rumbled and clattered.

Adding color to the review were Libyan regiments of cavalry and infantry.

It was the second of four great war shows arranged in the honor of the man who reared Germany.

A sham battle and a mammoth aerial circus were yet on the program. Yesterday the fuhrer, favored by a calm sea, witnessed the maneuvering, with war-like precision, of Premier Mussolini's naval forces at Naples.

Observers said they were impressed by the intimate comradeship that prevailed between the two men.

It was believed Hitler again had assured Mussolini that his purpose of uniting all Germans in one reich would not apply to Germans in Italy.

Deny Military Alliance Diplomats recalled that both Italy and France in the recently initiated friendship conversations paralleling the Anglo-Italian agreement had said they expected to complete preliminary negotiations before Hitler's visit, and said there was no doubt Hitler had brought about a delay.

They looked for the course these negotiations hereafter would pursue to be an indication of the understanding reached during this visit of Hitler to Rome.

German quarters flatly denied a military alliance was offered to Premier Mussolini, or that one was contemplated.

With their general staffs already in working agreement, it was explained that two such powerful leaders had no need for formal alliance.

All Elements of Party on Program Of Cooking School

this year, for as they have watched it outgrow one meeting place and auditorium after another, they have contributed to its growth and development.

This party will last for four days instead of being over in one day, and the "guests" can look forward to a continuation of the fun and profit from day to day, climaxing the week's celebration with a grand finale on Friday. Because every-thing is to be done in a party, tickets have been issued for each day's session at 10 cents each, insuring the holder of a seat in the theater no matter what time she arrives. However, the number of tickets for each session is limited by the number of seats in the theater, so it behooves the wise woman to get her tickets early so that she will not be disappointed.

Since the tickets were placed on sale Wednesday morning at various business places throughout the city and nearby towns, there has been a rush for them which will probably clean out the supply long before the cooking school opens. Only a few days remain in which to obtain tickets, so don't delay and risk the disappointment which some of the men experienced when they waited too long to obtain tickets to the fishermen's party last week. Profit by the bitter experience of others, and get your tickets today for all four sessions.

Leland Feavel is cooperating with Appleton Glass and Paint company in decorating the model kitchen which will be set up on the Rio theater stage for Miss Kidd's demonstrations. Sea foam green is the color being used, the paint being a Wallbridge product.

Here is a list of the places where tickets for the cooking school may be obtained: Lutz Ice company, Wisconsin Michigan Power company, Hopfensperger Brothers Inc., markets, Schaefer Dairy, Grace's Apparel Shop, Home Hosiery company, Green's shoe department (main floor), Unique Food Shop, Badger Pantorium, Appleton Glass and Paint company, Riverside Greenhouse (Conway hotel), Elm Tree Bakery, Johnson Shoe Rebuilders, Buclo's Beauty shop, Goodman's Jewelers, People's Laundry, Pettibone-Peabody company, Appleton Post-Crescent business office and Sears-Robuck and company, all in Appleton; Hopfensperger Brothers Inc., markets at Neenah and Menasha; the Appleton Post-Crescent Twin Cities office in Neenah; Fleweger's Grocery at Kimberly; P. R. Gloude-mann store at Little Chute, and Street's Food Market at Kaukauna.

Asks Payment of Claim For Construction Work Post-Crescent Washington Bureau Washington — A bill to authorize payment of the Lemke Construction company, Kaukauna, of $3,158.12, settlement of a claim for increased labor and material costs incurred in carrying out a government contract in 1933, has been introduced in the house of representatives by Congressman George J. Schneider of Appleton.

The MR. come into being shortly after the contract was undertaken by the Lemke Construction company, and in order to obtain their "Blue Eagle" the company was forced to raise wages, thus incurring unforseen expenses.

Work carried out under the Lemke contract with the war department was the removal of the old timber dam, Cedar dam, and replacement by a concrete dam in the Fox river at Kimberly.

The bill has been referred to the committee on claims for review, recommendations, and any amendments.

Officials of 29 Counties Receive Awards at Bedside of LaFollette

Madison — (AP)—Confined to the executive residence with a sore throat and head cold, Governor Philip LaFollette today presented awards at his bedside to officials of 29 counties for outstanding work in highway safety promotion during 1937.

The governor, who was ordered to bed by his physician yesterday, was scheduled to address the annual Wisconsin Street and Highway Safety conference here, but had to cancel the engagement.

Instead he presented the awards at his residence and designated a representative to read his message to the conference.

Bronze plaques were given to safety council officers from Milwaukee, Marathon, Wood, Door and Marquette counties for winning first places in their population classes.

Dane, Racine, Polk, Richland, Trempealeau and Iron counties received certificates for second place. Honorable mention awards went to Brown, Fond du Lac, Manitowish, Sheboygan, Douglas, Oconto, St. Croix, Shawano, Washington, Ashland, Bayfield, Calumet, Juneau, Kewaunee, Ozaukee, Pierce, Green Lake and Waushara county safety councils.

The governor said that one big problem in highway safety, which officials must solve, is the education of adult pedestrians and drivers.

He said Wisconsin, during the last five months has shown such a marked reduction in automobile fatalities that it represents the saving of 96 lives but warned that the next five months would mark the high travel period and that the accident death rate may go up again.

Purpose of the state safety conference at this time is to forestall an increase in the accident death rate during the summer months.

Chairman Thomas F. Davlin of the state highway commission assured the safety workers his department was endeavoring to make their job easier by complying with all modern safety standards of road building. He mentioned dust proofing programs as a recent development.

"Many suggestions for improvement of our highways could be made by this group," Davlin said, "but I want to assure you that we are doing these things as fast as funds will permit."

Davlin said newspapers and radio stations have contributed much to the safety education program.

Police Chief Joseph Kluchsky of Milwaukee said if all automobile drivers complied with state traffic laws there would be no accident problem.

"Many drivers are pitifully ignorant of the law and others know but disregard it," he said. "Both types are in need of safety education."

Kluchsky described procedure which repeatedly has given Milwaukee national recognition as the safest large city in the United States. He emphasized the desirability of "good manners" on the part of both the motorist and the traffic officer.

Hi-Y Sponsoring Vocational Study For Senior Boys

Men Representing Professions, Trades Will Meet With Students

The Badger Hi-Y club will sponsor a vocational guidance program for Appleton High school senior boys next week, it was announced today by C. C. Bailey, boys director at the Y. M. C. A.

Blanks will be distributed to the seniors next Tuesday at the high school. Boys who are interested in the program may write on the blanks what professions or trades interest them, listing as many as they wish.

The blanks will be collected, studied, and a group of Appleton men, each representing a profession or trade, will be enlisted to meet with the boys. The men will instruct the seniors on what training and qualifications are needed for the various professions and trades.

The interviews will be held at the Y. M. C. A. next week. The evening has not been determined yet, Bailey said today. The Badger club has yet to make arrangements with all the men who will assist the high school seniors in the vocational program. Besides private interviews, several speakers will address the entire group, Bailey said.

Arnold Harmsen, president of Badger Hi-Y club, is general chairman for the project. It will be the first time such a program has been sponsored in the city, Bailey said today.

Chinese Hopeful After 10 Months Of War in Orient

the "occupied" territory. Even these must constantly be defended against Chinese guerrilla armies.

Both nations are tired of the war, but neither can stop. For China it is a fight for life. For Japan, although it began as a punitive expedition, it has grown to involve her hegemony of the Orient—her role as peace-keeper of east Asia, as she calls it—her status as a world power, perhaps even her whole social, economic and political fabric.

PEIPING ANXIOUS Shanghai — (AP)—Chinese claimed the recapture of approximately half the territory in southern Shantung province won by Japanese in a three-week offensive from Lini.

And while the two armies battled doggedly about Tancheng and Tairchewang, there were significant developments on several other fronts.

Peiping's gates were closed and barred and that ancient city of Chinese culture, occupied by Japanese troops soon after the war broke out, spent one of its most anxious days.

Japanese planes yesterday bombed objectives but a few miles west of the city's walls, and there were persistent reports Chinese guerrillas and communists were approaching the city. Police searched houses for Continued Reoccupation In South Hope and north Honan provinces, Chinese continued reoccupation of territory previously taken by Japanese in their advance to the Yellow river. They said they had reclaimed ten towns.

Fighting was heaviest about Tancheng. Outnumbered Japanese had been pushed back almost to Szechuchen, 18 miles north of Pshien. Japanese almost reached the latter town a few days ago before the full force of a counter-offensive by 800,000 Chinese had made itself felt.

Tancheng was surrounded, Chinese field commanders said, and 100 Japanese lorries bringing reinforcements and supplies from Lini captured.

Heavy fighting was developing west of this sector, along the marshy shores of Lake Weishan.

General John G. Salsman, who recently celebrated his 80th birthday at the home of his daughter and son-in-law, City Attorney and Mrs. Harold E. Hanson of Madison, reported yesterday that he will make his first flying trip Saturday when he boards an airplane at Milwaukee and starts for Washington to visit another daughter.

General Salsman from 1901 to 1927 served in the office of the state adjutant general, for a short time in the capacity of adjutant general. In 1927 he became adjutant at the Wisconsin Veterans' Home at Waupaca where he served until his recent retirement. He still resides at the home, (Wisconsin State Journal Photo.)

Irregulars believed to have slipped within the gates.

Garrison Reduced Peiping's Japanese garrison was greatly reduced by dispatching of reinforcements to Shantung.

A Chinese counter-attack on the Yangtze river was claimed to have occupied Tangtu, severing Japanese railroad communications between Wuhu and Nanking. Tangtu is 16 miles down the river from Wuhu and 50 miles upriver from Nanking.

In the same area, a Japanese column advancing westward into Anhui province against Hefei, captured Shihkiao.

Yet another Japanese column reported a victory over 7,000 Chinese in north Kiangsu province.

Chinese aviation became active and Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek's fliers reported bombing Pengpu, important center on the Tientsin-Pukow railway south of Suchow. An ammunition depot was blown up and three Japanese planes destroyed.

"8. Stop credit inflation juggling. Make the currency convertible into bullion at the irreparable 59-cent dollar and repeat all authority for currency inflation.

"9. Set up a court of 25 responsible, non-political men representing business, labor and agriculture to direct federal reserve policies and thus take that control of credit out of the hands of politicians.

"11. Stop indiscriminate defamations of business and the creations of class hate. Use the courts for purposes of prosecution."

Hoover said constructive action to allay fear and re-establish confidence in the future "would release the enormous reserves of private enterprise in place of a trickle of government money" and would "take men back to their jobs tomorrow and permanently."

Babson Declares Recession Now Is Affecting Farms

Prices of Rural Products Have Declined Greatly, He Says

BY ROGER BABSON

Babson Park — The recession is now stretching out through the rural areas of America. Up until several months ago the farm communities were not suffering from the recession so severely as the shut-down industrial centers. We are now entering a new farm season. Prospects indicate a mammoth winter wheat crop. Taking this as the barometer, other crops should also be large, granted good growing conditions. Prices of farm products, however, have declined greatly. Hence, the farm outlook for 1938 is very uncertain.

There are 15,000,000 farm families in the United States. They are a vital factor in the nation's retail trade. Today they are up against a tremendous problem. It boils down to this: The farmer must receive, in proportion, for his wheat, potatoes, or apples what a manufacturer charges for his cloth, shoes, or tools. Since a year ago farm prices have dropped nearly 20 per cent. Meanwhile, prices for the goods which farmers must buy have dropped only 6 per cent. This means that the buying power of farm products is more than 20 per cent lower.

Prices Stabilizing
The price decline is still going on although the momentum is easing up. Sharpest drops have come in the quotations on grains, fruits, vegetables, meats, butter, and cotton. Milk, eggs, and poultry have made a better showing. Farm wages have eased off slightly since last summer, but are as high as a year ago. Taxes, of course, are no lower. Hence, the profits of the American farmer have slumped badly in the last twelve months. Dairy farmers are the one exception. While their prices are lower than last summer, one major item in their production cost—feed—has fallen sharply.

Huge Wheat Crop
Now the new farm season is under way. Acreage of some crops will be slightly under 1937 but wheat acreage will be close to a record. The government forecast of the winter wheat crop places it well above 700,000,000 bushels. This would be the third largest in history. The average of the past five years is 485,000,000 bushels. Even the so-called drought areas, particularly the prairie provinces of Canada, should produce the first real harvest in years. Moreover, we are going into the new crop season with huge carry-overs. The cotton surplus, for instance, is the largest on record and almost equals an average annual crop.

A new agricultural act was okayed by Congress last winter. Under its provisions much of the various 1938 crops will not be allowed to go to market. This means an outlay of millions of dollars by the federal government. In cotton alone the cost would run as high as $600,000,000. This program may temporarily help farmers. But it may become a tremendous burden on the rest of the country. Furthermore, a big backwash of rural sentiment is rising against government control and its allotment plan. Farmers are talking of refusing "to sacrifice liberty for prosperity." They are rugged individualists and Secretary Wallace's

What Is Your News I. Q.?

Each question counts 20; each part of a two-part question, 10. A score of 80 is fair; 90 good. Answers on market page.

1. What is the name of this 31-year-old stock broker who was nominated for chairman of the board of governors of the New York Stock Exchange?
2. What famous pitcher has been acquired by the Chicago Cubs?
3. The Spanish Insurgents' drive to the Mediterranean has isolated Valencia from Madrid. True or false?
4. What former child movie star sued his mother and stepfather for $4,000,000?
5. What former French ambassador to the United States is foreign secretary in the Daladier cabinet?

new program may strike a snag in rural resistance to "regimentation."

Grasshopper Plague?
May farm forecasts, however, can easily turn into July boomerangs. This happened in '34 and '36 as June droughts withered the great plains. This year farmers are worried by the possibility of a grasshopper plague. Weather conditions have been ideal for these insects. Scientists and technical men are so fearful of this menace that they have already mapped out their plans to combat the 'hoppers, should they strike. Those who saw the moving picture "The Good Earth" have a realization of what a real grasshopper invasion means.

Drought, grasshoppers, or some other event could change present forecasts radically. Smaller crops sold at higher prices would probably bring more farm income than bumper harvests at low prices. Big crops will certainly help those businesses—railroads, elevators, etc.—which handle the crops. But regardless of the size of the 1938 harvest, there should be improvement in some prices between now and fall as general business picks up. I doubt, however, if such an improvement would bring farm income up to the 1937 level. So farm prospects for the next few months are questionable.

In fact, country retail sales are only now beginning to reflect the sharp drop in rural income which we have already experienced this year. The longer-term picture has not changed in recent months. The real answer to the American farm problem is better farming methods, greater diversification of crops, the revival of world trade, and the development of new industrial uses for farm products. Huge one-crop farms operated as big business aggravate the farm problem. Farming is a manner of living. It cannot be encouraged as a big business. Remember that the farmer enjoys many advantages that the city

Postal receipts during April amounted to $16,289.25, 6.6 per cent below the figure for April of 1937, Postmaster Stephen Balliet said today. The figure for April a year ago was $17,432.94. The decrease was $1,143.69.

The number of money orders increased by 126 however, the postmaster said. A total of 5,802 was issued in April of 1937 and 5,928 last month.

All Aspects of Safety are Discussed at Kimberly Mill And Community Conference

Kimberly—More than 600 persons attended the morning session of the Kimberly mill and community safety conference at the clubhouse Thursday. The program opened with the high school band playing marches after which addresses of welcome were given by J. T. Doerflinger, mill manager; Lloyd Lang, village president, and John C. Curran, high school principal. Dud Couchand, was chairman of the morning session.

Outlining accident prevention in the home, Miss Mary Orbison, city nurse of the Appleton schools, told the audience how many of them occur. The speaker said that a thousand deaths have resulted in a year's time from gas in which leaky furnaces, coal stoves, heaters, gasoline engines and gas pipes, while closed dampers in pipes have also caused many deaths.

Show Safety Pictures

Motion pictures, "Sentinels of Safety" and "Once Upon a Time," dealt with safety in the home and on the highway.

The Kimberly boy scouts demonstrated a first aid problem of a light company employee on a pole who took hold of a live wire containing 30,000 volts. Members of the team are William Westendorp, Floyd Hopfensperger, Donald Verkullen, John Kneepkins, Robert Lang, and Joseph Van Daalwyck. William Van Hout, assistant scoutmaster, directed the demonstration.

The first aid team of the Kimberly mill also gave a demonstration during the afternoon.

W. J. Mumme announced prize winners for the school contests and high school essay winner during the morning session. The prizes for decorating menus went to Shirley Busch, Donald Schelfout and Clement Van Gompel of the Holy Name school; Eugene Verhagen, Albert Adams, and Agnes Dufrance of the public school.

The fifth grade of the public school won the safety scrap book prize while the fourth grade of the public school and the fifth grade of the Holy Name school received honorable mention.

Safety dioramas: Eighth and ninth grades of Holy Name school; ninth grade of the public school, honorable mention. Joseph Van Lieshout of the high school won the essay and speaking contest. His subject was "Avoid Safety Hazards Through Education." John Kneepkins was awarded second place. His topic was "Safety in Schools," and Dick Pieters was third with "Worse Than War."

Pedestrian Safety

Pedestrians safety is what chiefly concerns school children, William T. Sullivan, director of the Kaukauna Vocational school, told the audience at the clubhouse Thursday morning. The speaker said that it is not necessary to remember six or seven traffic codes for walking or driving but suggested good common sense is all that is needed.

In 1937 nearly 900 persons were killed by automobiles on the streets and highways in the state of Wisconsin, William F. Steuber, assistant director of the highway safety department, told the large audience at the clubhouse Thursday afternoon. In 1938, however, he said, each of the first six months has seen less people killed in Wisconsin than the corresponding months the year before.

Crediting this record to the various organizations and individuals who have helped promote highway safety, to traffic officers, who strive to prevent accidents by educating the driver in regard to traffic rules and regulations, and to work in the schools, Mr. Steuber asserted that he considers the last five months a trend, rather than luck.

He explained various safety tests and devices to be used at public exhibits and at county fairs.

Mr. Steuber congratulated all those participating in the safety conference and stated that he was taking back with him many of the safety ideas displayed and would incorporate them into the highway safety program.

Management's Part

H. G. Boon, general superintendent of the Kimberly-Clark corporation spoke on "Management's Part in a Safety Program." He declared that these things have been talked over time and again, but that lives depend on constant re-emphasis and repeating the safety messages.

The speaker said that management should see that the right equipment be properly guarded. If new equipment is installed or any changes made, care and time are required, so that the workers can keep pace and enough information given the employees so they can operate safely. He stated that new processes and changes take several months before they are made and frequently older employees, sometimes from other plants, assist in training the worker. Adequate leadership and supervision must also be provided for.

Management also must insist on "good housekeeping." Junk must be gotten rid of just as soon as possible, the speaker said. Physical examinations must be given at regular intervals. He also explained that much work has been done on job analysis.

Br. Boon asserted that the management feels its responsibility and does everything within its power to continue this movement.

John Limpert acted as toastmaster. J. T. Doerflinger, mill manager, and Lloyd Lang, village president, also gave short safety talks.

Prizes Awarded

A. D. Wilkinson awarded the prizes in the mill contest, where the last line of safety rhymes had to be filled in. Awards were given to the following: W. Phillipsen, machine; Chester Barrand, structural; Matt. Minten, materials; Leo Schampers, groundwood; Peter Van Offeren, super calenders; Harvey Hartjes, woodyard; Frank Wiegand, steam; O. Albers, beaters; Norman Kirkland, wood room; Peter Vander Weilen, chlorine; George Coonen, electrical; Leonard Goffard, maintenance; Y. Verhagen, sulphite; Glen Swick, laboratory, personnel and warehouse; George Kerrigan, finishing room; John Clark, forman. Leo Schampers, Little Chute, of groundwood, was awarded a $5 grand prize.

Four booth exhibits were displayed during the conference and will be shown through Sunday. The industrial booth had the maintenance, structural, electric and steam departments. It showed safe and unsafe ways of using machinery, elevators and motors.

The home safety booth included the sulphite, groundwood, wood yard, woodroom and office departments. It showed unsafe practices in the home. By looking through a red window the conditions changed to "safe."

The street and highway safety booth was made up of paper machine, finishing room, calenders and beaters. This booth portrayed two villages, one safe and one unsafe, and was called safetyville and Blinderville.

The recreational booth was made by materials, laboratory, research, and chlorine departments. This booth showed safe and unsafe playground equipment.

State Lamb, Wool Prices Reported Lower This Year

Number of Stock Sheep on Farms Is 2 Per Cent Lower Than in 1937

This spring lamb and wool prices show a marked decline as compared with a year ago, according to the crop reporting service of the Wisconsin and United States Departments of Agriculture. Wisconsin farmers now receive about 18 cents per pound for wool and $7.40 per hundred pounds for lambs. A year ago the farm price of wool was reported at 34 cents per pound and lambs at $9.60 per hundred. Last year there were 478,000 sheep and lambs on Wisconsin farms, and wool production added $991,069 to the farm income of the state.

It is believed that in view of the relatively large carry-over of wool into the new season, domestic prices are not likely to show a material increase until there is a marked improvement in the manufacturing situation. Stocks of raw wool remaining in the United States at the beginning of the new season on April 1 were much larger than a year earlier and probably were above the average April stocks of the past 10 years.

Consumption of apparel wool by United States mills in February averaged well over three million pounds, secured basis, per week. While this was the highest weekly average since October, it was less than half as large as the consumption of February 1937 and was the smallest in the last 20 years.

The early spring lamb crop is expected to be about 15 per cent larger for the United States than a year ago. Prices of new crop lambs in May and June probably will continue considerably lower than those of a year ago. While it appeared early in the year that slaughter of sheep and lambs this spring would be about the same as a year ago, it now appears that more sheep and lambs will be slaughtered this spring than a year ago.

In Wisconsin the number of stock sheep on farms this year is about 2 per cent smaller than a year ago, the estimated number being 392,000 head. This is the third year of declining sheep numbers in Wisconsin.

Reduction in Bang's Disease Seen in Tests

In the 45 months since the cooperative work to control Bang's disease was begun, state and federal veterinarians have tested an average of more than half a million cattle each month. Since July 1, 1934, a total of 23,715,375 blood tests have been completed. Of this number 1,471,990, or 6 per cent, have been positive signifying the presence of the disease. The work is being conducted in the 48 states and in Puerto Rico.

During March 1938 there were 720,210 cattle tested with 27,824 reactors, or about 4 per cent including retests. During the first four months of the present systematic campaign against Bang's disease the percentage was 14, which was due to the testing of many badly infected herds. In some individual herds the infection exceeded 20 per cent. The smaller percentages this year, which includes retests of infected herds, indicate that the disease is being greatly reduced as a result of the cooperative work.

Prepare for Fight Against 'Hoppers'

Control Possible if Farmers, Officials Cooperate, Chambers Says

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau Madison—Exceptionally favorable conditions this spring make it likely that the 1938 crop season will be a tough one for entomologists, E. L. Chambers, chief of the state's anti-insect forces reported yesterday. He revealed that arrangements have been made to wage Wisconsin's annual grasshopper war on a larger scale than ever before during the forthcoming season.

Despite the fact that the plague this year will assume greater proportions than ever before, Chambers predicts that control will be possible if all farmers and agriculture officials work together on an intensive program.

With the aid of a $200,000 federal grant, surveys of the state are now underway, and after the millions of eggs now in the soil of Wisconsin farms have been hatched, CCC and WPA personnel will be drafted to supplement the efforts of county agents and farmers, Chambers said.

That the problem is formidable is shown by recent surveys indicating that the war will be fought on a front comprising almost 2,000,000 acres of Wisconsin crop land this year, necessitating the distribution of almost 10,000 tons of poison bait which costs about $20 a ton.

Northeastern Wisconsin is so far classified in the "light infestation" area, but even there the campaign will be strong, according to state survey reports. In Brown county 22 per cent of the crop acreage is infested. In Outagamie 38 per cent,

New Varieties of Apples Seldom Have All Desired Merits

Apples of many varieties are grown in this country but only a few combine dessert quality with attractiveness and desirable growth says John R. Magness, fruit specialist of the federal department of agriculture in a bulletin received by R. C. Swanson, Outagamie county agricultural agent.

A systematic breeding program has been under way in the United States for 50 years. But only a few of the many varieties introduced during that time appear to have lasting merit, such as the Cortland, introduced at the Geneva, N. Y., experiment station for growth in New England, and the Haralson from the Minnesota station, a hardy variety for the prairie states. In explaining this slow progress, Magness points out, that the apple breeder works for the next generation of trees and growers. It requires 25 to 30 years to tell accurately whether the new variety is a superior apple. Too, only in recent years have breeders known what parent stock to use. It is known now that some varieties are triploids—having 51 chromosomes instead of 34. The extra set of chromosomes generally result in sterility, or the seedlings are so weak that they are of little value.

SO WHAT!

The National Labor Relations Board has been running hard for cover.

Its attempt is to withdraw its own rulings or reverse itself in a number of important cases. This attempt was only made after the supreme court of the United States decided in the Kansas City Stockyards case that people in this country were still entitled to a hearing, rather a strange doctrine it will seem to many New Dealers.

At Washington W. S. Knudson, President of General Motors, and noted for his fair minded attitudes and statements, had this to say about the famous institution that was going to adjust all industrial disputes so equitably:

"The National Labor Relations Board set up to administer the act make no pretense even of paying any attention to the employer's side of the case. The employer can only be heard when he is summoned and he knows before he goes that there is no record of a single decision where he has had a ghost of a show,—so what!"

So What! Yes, so what! The country should go back to Mr. Roosevelt's idea of packing the supreme court. If the President has no more leading Kluxers to put on the bench how would it be to put on the members of the National Labor Relations Board?

Naturally Kluxers are preferred because they were the originators of the star chamber sessions in this country. When a Kleagle says to a bunch of hooded privates, "We are going out tonight and beat up Old Man Ferguson and after that we will hang one of the Emerson boys," there is no remonstrance, no question raised, and complete obedience to orders is the invariable rule. Ferguson and Emerson haven't any right to be heard anyway, not so long as someone with a hood or who occupies an official position upon the recommendation of Senator Guffey or John L. Lewis as to the NLRB members, orders otherwise.

On the other hand, if the people can ferret out the noble minds who devised the prevailing plan of solving the problems of industry something ought to be done for their preservation in alcohol for future generations.

JOBS AND INVESTMENTS

The Wisconsin Public Service Company in its "Annual Report to Employees" pursues now accepted standards in breaking down its financial statement into items that affect and have a direct relation to those employed by it.

Thus it shows that for approximately every $40,000 invested in such a public service company a steady job is created, its entire investment totaling over 57 millions and its employees numbering 1,425 persons.

A public utility is in the heavy industry class where, because of the big investment for dams, powerhouses, dynamos, transmission lines and the like, the amount of investment per employee is larger than in many other industries.

Although labor costs constitute the largest single item in the operation of the business they are followed by taxes as next in line.

Whoever originated the prevailing method of making a financial report into a live and intelligent thing instead of a mass of figures as formerly deserves well. Other industries would be bound to make their importance in welfare community clearer were they to adopt the outline used by the Public Service Corporation.

A SWEDEN LOOKS US OVER

Landing recently at New York Axel Wenner-Gren, reputed the greatest industrialist in Sweden, said:

"In Sweden all pay some taxes and as a result there is a popular interest in what the money is being used for, which is a safeguard against its being wasted."

A great many American liberals have been plying ocean lanes trying to find out why the Scandinavian countries apparently have the lead in the matter of human happiness in that their unemployment has been trivial, their industrial disputes rare, their poverty non-existent, and their democracy unchallenged. It is likely that the cause of the fortunate condition in Scandinavia is that the people keep their fingers on the public purse and frown down the soft plans by which a lazy government fattens up its coffers by indirect taxes for the purpose of creating an oppressive political oligarchy.

But it seems our people are not as sturdy as the Swedes. We cannot stand the truth. We cannot look into the light. We do not want to gaze at the books and see what the Jim Farley gang is doing to us.

It is all right with America whatever the political rulers take so long as the charge is not itemized in their bills.

Should we not add to our prayers, "And, Oh Heaven, keep us blind."

THE JEWISH BOYCOTT TO DATE

It is proposed by American Jews to introduce the plebiscite into their affairs for the good purpose of obtaining a more positive appraisal of opinion instead of permitting a few leaders, however fair and outstanding, to direct policies. Among other questions to be submitted upon this plebiscite is this:

"Do you favor the continuance of the boycott against Nazi Germany, including within the boycott the recently annexed province of Austria?"

The trouble with the delayed submission of a question like that is that the voters will be facing an established policy and the approval of acts already performed instead of exercising that entire freedom of opinion that accompanies a choice of methods prior to the influence upon them of a high controversy already in existence.

A more careful survey of boycotts, the Jewish boycott to date included, will reveal, we believe, that no boycott ever accomplished its purpose, that every boycott hurt countless innocent people and extended its cruel hand where those who originated it never expected or wanted it to operate, and finally that instead of bringing to terms those against whom it was loosened it only adds kerosene to the fire, extends it into a conflagration, and is likely to extend it further.

There are about 16 million Jews in the world. Over half of them live in Europe. Their Palestine homeland is not yet firmly established. They have neither army nor navy. Their people are scattered in such a manner they make easy targets for miscreants to attack.

With that setup it certainly was not the part of wisdom for the Jews in this country to open commercial war upon the Hitler regime secure in its power of directing the destinies of nearly 75 million Germans.

We have no doubt that the Jewish boycott has hurt the Reich materially. But it has hurt Jews more.

Will any person doubt that the riots and wrongs heaped upon Jews in Poland, Rumania and Hungary were fomented by the Hitler regime, determined to retaliate against Jewry because of this boycott? Is it not rather simple for the Nazis, even if their favorite argument of blood purity fails, to set the fires of intolerance blazing with money? Is it difficult in the Nazi's name for agents of Berlin to find men who will form mobs for a consideration?

In addition the Jewish boycott, all dolled up and paraded as it is by German newspapers, only makes the German people more determined, more willing to suffer the commercial injuries that result, and provides the Nazi leaders with an excuse, and justification for everything that may go wrong in their own economic plans.

Can there be any reasonable doubt that the recent order promulgated by Goering is aimed at divesting all German and Austrian Jews of their property, where-soever situated, and confiscating all the property in Austria and Germany belonging to alien Jews, where-soever located, and the total of which is said to amount to about 3 billion dollars, to offset this boycott and which will offset it for quite a while?

If the Jews in America would see to the careful distribution of such a work as that by Hugo Valentin, Professor of History at the Swedish University of Upsala, and which examines critically and historically into this field of intolerance and demonstrates that long before Christ walked on Galilee the Jews, and others as well, were used by autocrats to cover up their own shortcomings, hide their own crimes and convince an alibi together to confiding people that every mishap in life was somehow attributable to a minority that could be attacked, they would have accomplished much more than this boycott will ever accomplish and they would also smother the spread of a piece of inhumanity that the boycott only stimulates.

Opinions Of Others

POVERTY OF IDEAS

Washington has waxed querulous at rather frequent intervals during the business recession to date over the alleged failure of business leadership to offer constructive ideas. A member of the senate committee hearing the problems of industry as they affect employment takes up this theme as follows:

"The thing about the hearings which impresses me is the poverty of ideas expressed by the many distinguished leaders of business, finance and industry regarding the recession, its causes, its effects and the remedies to be proposed for its cure."

Business leaders, industrial leaders and leaders of finance have been virtually unanimous in suggesting that (1) the government put its fiscal affairs in order; (2) that it make peace with the utilities and outline its utility program so that there may be no future doubts or misgivings; (3) that it define what it regards as a monopoly; (4) that it define what it vaguely refers to as "big business"; (5) that it abandon the policies that have definitely discouraged capital; (6) that it set a limit or a point beyond which federal projects will not go in competing with private capital; (7) that it revamp what everyone realizes is a one-sided labor law; (8) that it go easy with its spending and pumping.

If the senator who voiced the above-quoted sentiments means what he says—and there is nothing to indicate that he does not—then these suggestions are not regarded by Washington as "ideas." The New York Times has

MA

She wasn't a story-book mother
Or the kind that an artist would paint;
Not a wistful-eyed, pensive Madonna
Who seems far less woman than saint.
She was always so thoroughly human,
So quick with her smile or her frown;
So ready to praise or to censure
And "Ma" to each kid in the town.
She was always so brisk and so busy,
No task was too great or too small;
Her laugh was so ready and wholesome—
In her heart there was room for us all.

It seems I can see her up yonder,
Her face puckered up in a frown.
As she mends some celestial garments
Or sews a few stars for a crown.
And I'm sure when the little child-angels
Grow sleepy as soft shadows creep,
She cuddles them close to her bosom
And quietly rocks them to sleep.
She was always so thoroughly human,
So quick to admonish or love—
And though she may snub good St. Peter,
She is "Ma" to each wee one above.

GEOGRAPHY DEPARTMENT

It gets hot out West sometimes. The last year I was there the cows all gave evaporated milk, and the only crop we could raise was potato chips. We planted onions with the potatoes to make their eyes water, so they would keep irrigated. The only way we could make a thing was to cut up hot winds into drafts and take them to the bank. They used them for directors meetings.

One day I went out to the corral to get a saddle-horse. I threw my rope on a snappy little bronc, and saddled him up, and I didn't find out he was a grasshopper until he started to fly. Well, I rode him to town alright, and tied him up, and went to the store, and when I came back he had eaten the saddle and bridle, thirty feet of rope, and four hitching posts. Then I decided to come East.

The last time I saw my land it was about three hundred feet in the air and headed Southeast. The striped gophers were up there, digging holes in it as usual, and the grasshoppers were sitting on top, waiting for something to sprout.

Well, anyway, I don't give a —T, which is the Western way of spelling HOOT, without any H2O.

A Verse for Today

By Anne Campbell

THE KITE

She said: "You see that kite the small boy flies
So high it is a speck against the skies?"

"Unless your sight is keen, you cannot see
It soaring there above that tall oak tree.

"But that small boy, without the gift of sight,
Could feel the pull of that alluring kite!"

She has no eyes to see the ball of string,
The palmed kite, the boy or anything.

But even she could feel the pull of it;
And thus she would describe the Infinite.

Feeling the pull of God, as she lies there,
Blind and believing that the world is fair.

NERVOUS STABILITY

Iron is heavy, but that isn't the reason it steadies the nerves. A wee dash of it, approximately one-fourth of a grain a day, is essential for normal nutrition. It begins to be evident now that something else is essential, as well as sufficient iron in the intake, to insure absorption of the iron and its utilization in the body. Present indications are that the something else is vitamin B.

Some great doctor or medical teacher of the last century conceived the plausible idea that "neurasthenia is the cry of a nerve for better nourishment."

One of the familiar complaints of women with simple hypochromic anemia or secondary anemia is neuralgia.

Iron enters into the composition of hemoglobin, the coloring matter of the red blood corpuscles, and the function of hemoglobin is to carry oxygen from the lungs to the cells of the body. The hemoglobin does this by forming a weak chemical combination with oxygen, but the cells of the body have a stronger affinity for oxygen, so they seize it from the blood and trade of carbon dioxide for it—the carbon dioxide has a stronger affinity for hemoglobin than oxygen has. This is very simple and clear, isn't it. That is, so far as the respiration or interchange of oxygen and carbon dioxide in the tissues is concerned. The real problem is to explain how the dickens the hemoglobin manages to let go of its load of carbon dioxide when it gets back to the lungs with it and takes on a fresh load of oxygen. Do you know, I've tried and tried, far, far into the night, but never even approached a solution of this puzzle. If I ever do hit upon a fairly rational explanation for it I'm going to knuckle down and finish "Our Own Physiology."

However, there is no mystery about the way insufficient iron accounts for loss of nervous stability. If there is a deficiency of iron in the hemoglobin, rather a deficiency of hemoglobin, the blood can carry less oxygen to the cells of the body.

All of the ill effects of carbon monoxide are due, not to any poisoning, but to this same state of anoxia or oxygen-deficiency, as carbon monoxide crowds oxygen out of the blood and the cells of the body.

Carbon monoxide is now one of the most frequent factors of "neurasthenia," derangement of the nervous system, nerve weakness, so-called nervous exhaustion. Not only acute gassing or asphyxiation but also the insidious or cumulative effects of slight pollution of the air by carbon monoxide.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS
Dew of Sahara

I have enjoyed ten times the price of your booklet "Save Your Skin" just from use of the Dew of Sahara you described in it, for people who suffer from dry, itchy, irritable skin. It keeps my skin soft and comfortable, even after a bath.

(Mrs. H. L. C.)

Answer—"Dew of Sahara" is made by agitating into an emulsion a rounded teaspoonful powdered tragacanth, 5 drops phenol (carbolic acid), 5 drops glycerin, 5 drops oil, in a pint bottle filled with distilled or boiled water. Apply a few drops to the skin as often as necessary. If druggist cannot sell pure phenol (carbolic), use instead one ounce of 5 per cent phenol (carbolic) solution, which any druggist can sell without prescription.

and an ounce less of water to fill the pint bottle.

Honey
Please advise if a diabetic may use honey. (M. M. R.)

Answer—Only by permission of his physician. Honey is no more suitable than any other sugar.

Tomato Juice

Is it all right to put the baby's tomato juice or orange juice in his bottle with his milk? He will not take it in water, but seems to take it all right in his bottle, but every one says it sours the milk.

(Mrs. W.)

Answer—It is all right in the baby's milk. It does not sour the milk. Send a three-cent-stamped envelope not less than 4 x 6 inches in size and ask for a copy of the Bigger Brady Baby Book.

Your Birthday

"TAURUS"

If May 7 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 9:30 to 11:30 a. m., from 3:30 to 5:30 p. m., and from 7:30 to 9:30 p. m. The danger periods are from 7:30 to 9:30 a. m., from 5:30 to 7:30 p. m., and from 9:30 to 11:30 p. m.

Fatigue is likely to be a serious handicap this day. Should you feel completely exhausted it will be advisable to take a rest before tackling anything that might require mental alertness. It might be well to be conservative, for the element of chance is apt to prove dangerous, and create discordant conditions. Do not undertake persons' affairs because by doing so you might be disappointed by their succeeding in doing something despite your lack of confidence in them. Lack of vision, in all likelihood will be responsible for most of this day's failures. Absent-mindedness is apt to be a prevailing fault that will cause many mistakes, so concentrate on what you are doing. Married and engaged couples, and those who are very much in love, will be wise to remember that fault-finding will cause most of the quarrels this day.

If a woman and May 7 is your birthday, you are perhaps very painstaking in your work and prudent in regard to incurring financial obligations or the disbursement of money. You may be carried away frequently by enthusiasm, particularly if you become interested in a new fad or hobby. Sooner or later you probably will become engrossed in reading books dealing with some social or religious subject. Perhaps quick temper, you should seriously try to develop self-control, and the chances are you will succeed in doing so. You may have good reason to be proud of some accomplishment, that is apparently going to increase your income. As a secretary, public stenographer, reporter, teacher, sales agent or lawyer your work ought to be highly commended. Matrimony should be for you a stepping stone to many good things in a comparatively short time.

The child born on May 7, should have plenty of intelligence that it will use advantageously. Usually very popular, there is generally always a friend ready to give a helping hand in an emergency. Children born on this date generally reach the goal of their hearts' desire.

If a man and May 7 is your natal day, love, in all likelihood, will compensate you for any sacrifices you have to make. As a clergyman, politician, writer, sales agent, artist, musician, lawyer or medical man your opportunities ought to be unlimited.

Seen And Heard In New York

BY GEORGE TUCKER

New York—The fantastic anecdotes of Hollywood continue to wing their way back from studio lots, and if this one is to be believed, and there is no reason why it shouldn't, it merits a high place in the uncollected annals of absurdity.

It concerns Gilbert Gabriel, former New York dramatic critic, who went to Hollywood to write for the films. He didn't just go there. He rushed. By plane. At the insistence of studio chiefs who telegraphed him that speed was imperative.

Drop everything and take the first plane, they urged. Hurry! Hurry! So Gabriel tossed a few shirts in a bag and boarded a fast transcontinental plane. He arrived. He was met. He was welcomed and greeted enthusiastically.

He was cheered and told that the wheels probably would have ceased turning had he not caught that particular plane.

And then he sat quietly for three months, without writing a word.

But the ghost salary continued to come. Each week he was handed his money. Good money. You could spend it anywhere. But Gabriel began to get jittery. He was tired twiddling his thumbs. Finally he went to his studio chief:

"Ah," cried the executive, "why didn't you say so! But of course you are not happy. You must have an important story to write."

So Gabriel tossed a few shirts in a bag and boarded a fast transcontinental plane. He arrived. He was met. He was welcomed and greeted enthusiastically.

A Bystander In Washington

BY PRESTON GROVER

Washington—A sacred tradition has been preserved at West Point—at least for a year—so in June, when Commencement comes, the graduating cadets will cheer to the echo the tail-end of the class to make up for him in acclaim what he lacks in scholarship.

The tradition of cheering loudest for the dullest is virtually as old as the academy. As a result, the army contends, the position of class "goat" almost rivals that of top man in distinction and honor.

It was Representative Terry of Arkansas who challenged the tradition. To him this system of advertising to the world the most shortcomings of the tail-end man is barbarous and humiliating. He put Brig. Gen. Jay L. Benedict, superintendent of the academy, on the spot by suggesting that the cadets be graduated alphabetically or according to height, except for the first few honor students.

They Like It!
The trouble about dropping the system, the general now replies in a letter to Mr. Terry, is that the "goats" like it. "Apparently they do not feel that the custom of presenting diplomas in order of graduation standing is cruel, barbarous and humiliating."

In particular, each of the two cadets who believe themselves most likely to be the goat of the class of 1938 has expressed his desires in no uncertain terms, if the honor fell to him, of being the last to receive his diploma.

So long as the goat regards his prominence as a privilege and an honor, General Benedict said, "I feel that the method should not be changed."

But not so Representative Terry. Replying to the General, he said: "I am the last person to wish to destroy a traditional observance; merely the fact that the custom is old and gives it an interest and attraction for me. But this custom is so completely out of line with modern systems of education and modern psychology that I know it is a bad one."

Moreover, said Mr. Terry, if the superintendent asked the prospective goat if he liked the tradition he would be "obligated to insist that it was swell."

Years ago, he said, the naval academy at Annapolis abandoned the idea of whooping it up for the "anchor man" who came in last and the congressman is determined to carry on for dear old West Point.

'Goats' Get There
The army is a bit in doubt as to who makes the best officers. Comparisons between the accomplishments of the top 10 men of each class and the bottom 10 men have been "inconclusive."

Great General Robert E. Lee was Number Two man in his class but Richard B. Scriven, the "goat" of that class of 1842, won a citation for gallantry in action in the Mexican War.

George B. McClellan, Northern general, was Number Two in his class but Major Civil war fame fell on General Grant, who was 21st in a class of 39. General Pershing came from the middle ranks of his class and so did General Malin Craig, now chief of staff. The goat in Craig's class is David L. Stone, major general commanding the Panama Canal zone. The Number One man retired years ago as a colonel.

General Douglas MacArthur, now marshal of the Philippine army, was Number One in his class of 1903 and is considered the brightest star in the army firmament. He jumped over the heads of dozens of generals to be chief of staff of the U. S. army while still in his early fifties.

The goat of that class was dismissed from the army a year after graduation.

here at any price. We really aren't going to make the picture at all. But it's a swell idea for a story and you said you were unhappy because you had nothing to write. Now you can write and be happy as you like."

Shutouts Important In 5-Suit

BY ELY CULBERTSON

In writing about five suit bridge certain "authorities" have pointed out that, due to the rise in the "book" from six to eight tricks, pre-emptive bidding will be virtually non-existent. With unimpeachable accuracy they state that an opening bid of four commits the bidder to a twelve trick contract, and they conclude (not quite so logically) that if a player can make such a commitment he must: (a) have within two tricks of his contract, vulnerable; three tricks, not vulnerable; and therefore (b), that with these nine or ten sure tricks, which will almost always include outside honor strength, he has a sound opening one bid.

The fallacy here lies in the fact that the Culbertson Rule of Two and Three, as mentioned above, has no logical application to five suit bridge. In contract bridge slams occur on or about 5 per cent of the hands dealt. In five suit bridge there will be a slam in about one hand in three! Obviously, if the partnership is to avoid an inundation of adverse slam contracts, it must do more than sit meekly at the table and hope that the opponents will be either timid or merciful. The only thing it can do with hands that are weak in honor or tricks, but strong distributionally, is to start out with the highest logical shutout bid. The potential gain from shutting out an adverse slam justifies the risk of a large penalty. Consider a hand such as the following:

NORTH
E ♠ 9 8 7
W ♠ 10 7 5
E ♠ 10 7 5 3 2
W ♠ 9 8 4
WEST
E ♠ 4 3 2
W ♠ 10 7 5
E ♠ 10 7 5 3 2
W ♠ 9 8 4
SOUTH
E ♠ 10 7 5 3 2
W ♠ 9 8 4
E ♠ 10 7 5 3 2
W ♠ 9 8 4

Widow card: E-J. If South, the declarer, adopts the defeatist attitude that there is no sense and too much risk in trying to shut out the opponents with a four eagle preempt he will pay dearly for his cowardice. First, let us consider the probable course of bidding if South passes. This is what probably would ensue:

South
West	North	East
1 ♠	Pass	2 ♠	4 ♠
2 ♠	Pass	3 ♠	4 ♠
3 ♠	Pass	4 ♠	4 ♠
4 ♠	Pass	5 ♠	4 ♠
5 ♠	Pass	6 ♠	4 ♠
6 ♠	Pass	7 ♠	4 ♠
7 ♠	Pass	8 ♠	4 ♠

Regardless of South's opening lead against seven spades, the contract becomes a laydown when declarer puts the widow (the eagle jack) into either his own hand or into dummy and discards a losing diamond. The grand slam thus fulfilled gives East-West the tidy bonus of 500 and trick score of 175. Now let us suppose South correctly had started out with a preemptive bid of four eagles. I defy any East-West team to reach a grand slam after such a shutout. West would double. East might decide to leave the double in for penalties and would collect 800 points by defeating South three tricks. Or he might decide to bid five spades. But even with this latter aggressive bid West would have to be highly optimistic to raise even to a small slam. It is my considered opinion that preemptive bidding should play a very large part in five suit bridge.

TOMORROW'S HAND
North, dealer.
Neither side vulnerable.

NORTH
E ♠ 10 9 7
W ♠ 10 7 5
E ♠ 10 7 5 3 2
W ♠ 9 8 4
WEST
E ♠ 4 3 2
W ♠ 10 7 5
E ♠ 10 7 5 3 2
W ♠ 9 8 4
SOUTH
E ♠ 10 9 7
W ♠ 10 7 5
E ♠ 10 7 5 3 2
W ♠ 9 8 4

Sponge cakes are made light by the air that is beaten into the eggs used in making them. Beat the whites and yolks separately and fold in the beaten whites.

To remove fruit stains from the hands rub them with salt moistened with vinegar.

When planting gladiolus bulbs or corms it is well to remove the outer skin, although this is not necessary. It is best to open a spot for them with a trowel, setting them in an upright position. The top can usually be identified because of being a little pointed.

To remove chewing gum that has adhered to clothing, rub the spot with the white of an egg.

To remove fly paper from an article, wet the article with kerosene and let it stand 10 or 15 minutes. Wash in hot water and pure soap.

To make putty stick to window panes use a small quantity of white lead; mix thoroughly with the putty.

Records of Speed

V-AIRPLANES

This week we have been going over the speeds of animals, men and machines. Summing up, and putting the records on a rate per minute basis, we have found:

The best swimmers (so far as tests have been made) are certain ocean fish which travel about half a mile a minute. The fastest runners are cheetahs, gazelles and pronghorn antelopes which can run at the rate of a mile a minute and in the case of the cheetah a bit more than that for a short distance.

The fastest flying birds are the golden eagle, which is rated at two miles a minute, and the duck hawk which is said to make a speed of three miles per minute.

Certain animals swim or run faster than any man, but with the help of machines men can speed along the water or over the land faster than any fish or furred animal. In record motorboat runs a speed of over two miles per minute has been made, about four times the speed of very fast fish. In automobile tests, a speed of a little more than five miles per minute has been made.

Men cannot fly, in the true sense of the word, but they have made machines which can fly, or at least speed through the air. In early days of the airplane, a rate of 30 or 35 miles per hour was thought to be very good. It really was good in the beginning, but now such a rate would be just "loafing" through the air.

Ordinary airplanes make a speed of 100 or 150 miles per hour without trouble. Many planes can go from 200 to 300 miles per hour, thus beating the record claimed for the fastest flying bird.

Much faster records have been made by airplanes. Last November a German "land plane" flew at the rate of 379 miles per hour. Seaplanes have gone even faster than that, the best record being 440 miles an hour, or seven and one-third miles per minute!

In recent months, great claims have been set up for the so-called "deer fly." This insect certainly is a speed demon, but the claim made by one scientist that it travels over 800 miles an hour should not be believed until more careful tests are made. The trouble with timing the deer fly is that the thing gets out of sight so quickly. The scientist I speak of did his testing with an extra-fast camera.

Dreams of Children Must Be Dealt With Gingerly

BY ANGELO PATRI

Many little dreams, usually comedies, are played in the principal's office every day. Some of them are loaded with dynamite and have to be handled gingerly; some are dissolved in laughter and are harmless.

A young teacher, looking frightened and worried, and two boys, sturdy, handsome, dark-eyed, full of boy spirit, who appeared in the doorway, were invited to come in and tell their story.

"I found these boys in the yard talking about skinning squirrels and one of them has a knife in his pocket."

"Is that so?" And who skins the squirrels?"

"I do," said Rocco.

"I catch them for him," said friend Tony.

"You do? Where do you go for them?"

"In the Park."

"Dear me, I am afraid that the parkmen will not like you to catch the squirrels. And skin them. You know the squirrels like to live and play in the trees, and eat nuts. You wouldn't want to be caught and skinned would you?"

"What do you do with them when you skin them?"

"I stuff them. I learned how in the school I came from."

"How many have you skinned and stuffed in your life?"

"One. In school I did that one, and put cotton in him and a wire in his tail."

"My, the poor squirrel."

"Ever catch any yourself?"

"No. They run too fast and they can climb some."

"Well, I think you'd better not chase any in the park any more."

The teacher handed the principal a little vegetable knife, the blade having been broken off short.

"This knife you skin him with when you catch him?"

"Yes," they said, and grinned.

"Well, you'd better leave the knife with me, and go on home and let the squirrels alone to play in the trees. Don't you think so?"

"Yes, but you see we have to pick dandelions with that knife for our mothers this afternoon."

"All right. Come in on your way home and take it along. Thanks for coming in with it."

Away they went, very cheerful.

very much alive, very harmless boys.

"I didn't know. They had that knife, and they talked about hunting the squirrels—I was afraid."

"Quite all right. But you will find that there are few boys able to catch a squirrel, or to skin one, or stuff one, in this city. Most of them are just healthy, happy rolicking youngsters who 'wouldn't hurt a fly. Don't be afraid of them, and don't think that a boy is wicked because he has a knife in his pocket. A knife and a boy supplement each other."

Mr. Patri will give personal attention to inquiries from parents, teachers and children. Write him in care of this paper, enclosing a three-cent stamped, addressed envelope for reply.

Children Need Leeway to Get Acquainted With Life

BY DOROTHY DIX

Parenthood is one of the things that people seldom seem able to take in their stride. Apparently they find it impossible to practice moderation in rearing their children. They overdo it or underdo it and one is just as disastrous in its consequences as the other.

Unfortunately of late years, the hands-off, noninterference method of bringing up children has been the vogue, and this has given us a generation of youngsters who are a law unto themselves, who know more about mixing cocktails than they do about the Ten Commandments, who are a pain in the neck to the general public and a perpetual anxiety and expense to their fathers and mothers.

But, equally unfortunately, these examples of the havoc undisciplined and uncontrolled children can make of their lives have driven many other parents to the opposite extreme and turned them into grinding tyrants who are wrecking their children's lives just as effectively as the neglectful parents have.

I am thinking, as I write this, of a boy I know. A fine intelligent lad of 18. A big strapping fellow six feet tall, filled with health and energy and high animal spirits, but whose father keeps him a virtual prisoner because he is determined that HIS son shall be kept away from all evil influences as far as possible.

This chap has no more liberty than a ticket-of-leave man. His every minute must be accounted for when he is away from home, even in going to and from school, and if he is a second late he has to furnish an air-tight alibi. He has never been permitted to take part in any school activities or to play on any of the athletic teams, because that might bring him in contact with boys who are not snow-white.

He has never been given a cent of pocket money for fear he might spend it foolishly. When he is at school he cannot even answer the count about who was speaking, and what they said and what he said. He dare not even go to the corner drug store without asking permission. He is forbidden even to speak to girls, for who knows what that might lead to!

This boy is desperate and wildly rebellious, as he naturally would be. He would run away from home except that he has an invalid mother to whom he is devoted. He is beginning to hate his father as an oppressor. And the most pitiful feature of the whole situation is that the father adores the lad and his cruelly to him is just his mistaken belief that he is safeguarding him against the follies of youth.

This father forgets two important things. One is that we are born with a hankering for forbidden fruit, and the more we are denied doing what we want to do, the more we long to do it. Nowhere is so glamorous as the place we cannot go. Nothing so fascinating as the thing we cannot do. We get no particular kick out of the things we can take or leave as we please. It is their being denied us that makes us determined to have them.

Hence the importance of letting a child find out as early as possible the true value of things and to learn to use them in moderation.

The next thing the overstrict father forgets is that however much he may disapprove of the modern world it is a place in which his son has to live, and that the son should be fitted to meet its dangers and not kept in ignorance of them. He can't always be kept locked up in a room at home. He can't always be kept immune from evil influences. He has to encounter bad men and bad women and be subjected to temptation. And the thing to do is to teach him how to meet them and warily through the snares that are laid for his feet.

The wise father does not try to protect his children too much. He gives them freedom and teaches them that liberty is not license. He teaches them to handle money by giving them pay for their mistakes when they waste it. He teaches them self-reliance by letting them make their own decisions and abide by them. And, above all, he makes himself their friend, counselor and helper by showing them sympathy, understanding and helpfulness.

In a word, he practices moderation, which is as great a virtue in rearing children as it is everywhere else in life.

Good Taste Today

YESTERDAY'S CUSTOM

Dear Mrs. Post: I am soon to move into a community where I believe I am going to be very happy. Some of my good friends here have friends there and they have written telling them about us. At least I am looking forward to their visits, and when they come in to see me do you think I should in all cases serve afternoon tea? Shall I adapt my return call by the time it took them to call on me?

Answer: If they come to see you between four and five o'clock or a little after five, then serve tea by all means—that is, if you can do this easily. Do not, however, attempt something which suggests effort. In my personal opinion there is nothing so friendly as an afternoon tea table. Moreover, the custom of yesterday, where it was never missing in a well appointed house, has very decidedly come back into fashion. Whether you yourself have it served every afternoon or not, would I if I were you, always have it in readiness. By this I mean, have the tray set in the pantry and the teakettle boiling gently on the range. If you have no maid, it will be necessary to have the table prepared always in your living-room and as guests come you would have to leave the room for only a moment to fill the hot-water kettle on your tea tray from the simmering kettle in the kitchen. But to have to leave your guests while you fuss around to get things ready would be too interrupting. You should return their visits within a week regardless of how soon people came to see you or how long they put off their coming.

An Invitation of a Long General List

Dear Mr. Post: We are soon to have a house guest for whom we want to give a large buffet supper, inviting a cross-section of our friends. I am wondering what type of invitation is best in view of the fact that two of the groups usually wear dinner clothes to our parties, while the other groups always go to parties in informal day clothes. Although we are mixing the "crowds" and would like to have every one dress, we don't want any one to stay away because he or she doesn't want to dress. Very often "What are you wearing?" goes around before such a party. Therefore, what kind of invitation indicates but doesn't command "dress?"

Answer: If you send out invitations in the formal third person, "Mr. and Mrs. Blank request the pleasure of your company at a buffet supper at such and such a time to meet Mrs. Houseguest," this would of course mean that those who don't want to dress would have to stay away. But if you send out your visiting card with "To meet Mrs. Houseguest" across the top of it, and below in abbreviation "May 14, buffet supper, 7 o'clock" and "R.s.v.p." below that, then those who are accustomed to dressing in the evening will come properly dressed whereas those who never dress in the evening and have always gone to your house in day clothes will probably think it permissible to go in day clothes again.

Wilt Resistant Asters are Able to Throw Off Disease

If you have trouble growing asters, why not try some of the wilt-resistant strains this year. They are a family of asters which have been grown in soil infected by the wilt disease (most common ailment of asters) and have shown ability to throw off the disease and survive where others die.

They have exceptional vigor, and seem to overcome all difficulties better than the standard bred strains. They are not resistant to any specific disease except wilt, and where the yellows disease is prevalent, not all the wilt resistant plants will escape. But some will, and in general it has been found that those who have trouble growing asters, get far better results with the resistant strains.

Nearly all the types and colors are now obtainable in wilt resistant strains.

A succession of asters may be obtained in two ways—by starting the late types early in the house or in a frame and making successive plantings until they may be sown in the open ground, or by sowing early, midseason and late types at the same time.

The giant branching type is one of the most satisfactory and the showiest of the asters. It makes a beautiful bed, and is fine for cutting, its huge, delicate blossoms being as soft and finished looking as the florists' cut flowers. They grow up to 3 feet in a wide range of colors.

The ostrich feather, or crego type, with their plume-like heads, resemble the chrysanthemum, and are almost as large. The petals are curled and twisted into a soft ball of delicate color, supported on a straight stem, which makes them ideal for indoor decoration. Like the rose, a single bloom will show off well in a vase.

More sensational is the California sunshine type, with its daisy-like center which belies the aster heritage. Their loosely placed outside petals usually contrast in color with the creamy yellow or blue centers, and they grow up to 3 feet tall.

Rose and pink with lavender and purples are good colors to mix with white asters; but as with other annuals, they show off better when planted in solid colors.

The seed should be sown thinly to make transplanting easy and save waste of plants in spindling, overcrowded seedlings. They should be transplanted from the original seed box or pot 1 inch apart as soon as the first true leaves are formed and grown until ready to set into the open ground.

HOLLYWOOD LIGHTS CAMERA ACTION! HAPPENINGS

BY ROBBIN COONS

Hollywood—That haystacked needle is no harder to find than a bad word for Joe Penner. . . . Penner, once a poor boy himself, has all he needs, with annuities and such, to last him a long while and he's using his money now to enjoy himself. . . .

Like this: he hears of a children's hospital that needs an iron lung to fight an infantile paralysis epidemic, so he buys one for $18,000, all on the quiet, and gets it there. . . .

Then he knows some guys who need and job of work and he sends them on the road to give shows for kids and collect pennies to help support the "lung." . . . Once place it cost Joe $305 to send his own show and the collection was 93 cents—and the 93 cents went into the fund. . . .

He has a Hungarian orchestra on his payroll, too, and it earns its keep by playing for Joe once in a while. . . . Oldtimers who were big names when Joe was a struggling youngster still hold his admiration—they're still "names" to him and when he can help, he does. . . . But chiselers-by-correspondence might as well save their stamps. . . . Because Joe has to know whom he's helping and he's nobody's fool.

Nice Titles

Joan Crawford's next film, "Fidelity," is taken from a yarn entitled "Infidelity." . . . And "Joy of Living," you know, began its career as "Joy of Loving." . . . Both showing how nice Hollywood has become. . . . Joan's spending her pre-picture time singing, and they say the voice is worth hearing, which is good to know just as musicals (they say) are on the way out.

A while back when all the studios were building up their contract lists the free-lancers were doleful because most of the movie jobs went to people already on the payroll. . . . The studios now have done something about it—by increasing the number of free-lancers to meet the "recession." . . . Samples: Paramount's list of 130 players is now 107. . . . RKO's 83 is a thin 36 now.

Barbara O'Neil has a dog named Snook—with three O's, but for no special reason. . . . Frank Capra personally presided over Gloria Blondell's screen test at Columbia.

Lane's McShain

The next picture Ray Bolger will be cut from—if his past luck holds out—is "Snug Harbor." Mrs. Jack Oakie (Vanita Varden) has gained six of the 15 pounds she needs to win a test for the role of Miss S. O'Hara. . . . There's nobody less like the tough characters she plays than Claire Trevor off-screen. . . .

Richard Lane's wrestler, Danny McShain, is the only one of his dozen-odd financial ventures the actor didn't seek. . . . Lane saw Danny at a match in Texas, advised Madison—(P)—A person with eyes closed always goes in circles.

He does so whether walking, running, driving an auto, or flying a plane. Blindfolded animals spiral. Blindfolded birds do, too.

Scientists have been trying to discover why, because the spiraling is likely to be in a fixed direction, either to left or right. They have thought it due to some fundamental principle of nature.

For they found the same tendency to spiral in plants. Although unable to move, the plant structures showed a right or left twist in cells. Even bacteria show a like spiraling. Their colonies sometimes grow in spirals.

The reason for the spiraling of cells in plants and animals has been found at the University of Wisconsin by Dr. James L. Roberts. The twist is due to growth in

Lane's been collecting—15 per cent—but only since Danny became "champion" in his light-heavy-weight division. . . . ### Committee to Meet Again School Remodeling Work

The proposed remodeling of Lincoln school so that the building can be used as a city hall will be discussed by the public grounds and building committee of the city council at a meeting Monday. A recommendation to employ Raymond N. LeVee as architect for the work was referred back to committee Wednesday because the report failed to stipulate the architect's fee and whether the project would be under WPA or PWA.

Hearing Is Scheduled on Proposed Building Code

A public hearing on the proposed building code for Appleton will be held at 7:30 Tuesday evening in city hall by the ordinance committee of the common council. At that time the committee will listen to objections to various parts of the revised code completed last week. It is proposed to incorporate the code into the general city ordinances.

The story of "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs" will be told by Miss Dorothy Kotkowsky, children's librarian, during story hour at 10 o'clock Saturday morning at the Appleton Public Library. The librarian has received many requests from children to tell the story again, she said.

Knights Hear Address on Philippines

CONDITIONS in the Philippine Islands where he spent the year 1938 were described by John McCormick, instructor in history and physical education director at Freedom High school, at a meeting of Father Fitzmaurice council, Knights of Columbus, last night at Catholic home. He pointed out that because of the many different languages spoken in the islands, no unity was apparent there for many years. In Manila alone, about 80 languages are spoken, he said.

He spoke of the independence bill which was passed by the United States Congress in 1934 in which it was agreed to give the Philippines their independence in 10 years time, but said that in view of conditions there at present Congress must either extend that period for another 10 years or the United States and Great Britain must set up a protectorate there in 1944 to keep the islands for the two English speaking countries. Japan, he said, has its eye on the Philippines.

Mr. McCormick said that the school system in Manila is poorly handled but an attempt is being made to bring all schools under one board. He spoke of the religion of the islands, stating that 90 per cent of the people on the principal island are Catholic.

Mr. McCormick also spoke of his travels in Ethiopia, China, Japan, and other countries. Auxiliary to Wisconsin Paid Firemen's association met Thursday afternoon at Trades and Labor hall. ### Audience Is Pleased by Band Concert

LAST night the Lawrence college concert band, under the direction of E. C. Moore, presented its annual concert at Lawrence Memorial chapel, presenting a well-chosen and interesting program which was well-received by an appreciative audience.

The overture to Phedre, written by Massenet as incidental music to a drama based upon a Greek myth, opened the program and showed the entire band to advantage.

William Guyer, baritone, who presented a group of songs by Chadwick, won the generous applause of the audience for his performance. A trombone solo was played by Elwood Bleick, and Edmund Marty played a euphonium solo.

A first performance of a band arrangement of Panis Anglicus by Franck was conducted by James Laux, senior student at the Lawrence Conservatory of Music. Laux, who made the arrangement, displayed a fine command over the resources of the modern concert band and acquitted himself of all criticism as a conductor.

Included in the program was the Second Norwegian Rhapsody by Christensen. This was the first presentation in Appleton of this band number. The most descriptive number presented was the concert suite, Atlantis, by Satrianek. The slow, majestic music of the nocturne and morning hymn of praise was followed by a sprightly gavotte. The last movement, tumultuous and descriptive of destruction, vividly portrayed the ruin of the continent.

The program was brought to a close with selections from the opera, Marmite, by Komberg. Mr. Moore responded generously with encores throughout the entire program.

Dean of Women Hostess At Senior Costume Party

COMIC strip characters mugged with Shakespeare's Portia and Shylock, and Queen Marie Antoinette and a French courtier hobnobbed with Tom Sawyer and a group of hillbillies at the annual senior girls' costume party given by Miss Ruth Cope, dean of women at Lawrence college, Thursday night at Russell Sage hall.

Mrs. Thomas N. Barrows, Mrs. John Millis and Miss Edna Wiegand were judges at the party, and after the dinner awarded prizes for the funniest, the prettiest and most original costumes. Miss Alice Holloway, Glencoe, Ill., costumed as Dopey of "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs" fame, won first prize in the funniest costume division, and Miss Evelyn Mertins, Iron River, Mich., who came as a little girl with braids and a doll, won second place in that group.

Prettiest costume there, the judges decided, was Miss Portia Field's. The Evanston, Ill., girl was dressed to represent Portia, Shakespearean heroine. She wore a gown of blue satin and a sheer white veil fastened to her head with a rhinestone band. Second prize for the prettiest costume went to Miss Mildred Serwer, Cloquet, Minn., who was dressed as a colonial lady in a lavender and white floral print gown, her auburn hair in long curls.

Miss Margaret Hendrickson, Hinsdale, Ill., who appeared at the party as a "jeep," comic strip character, was awarded first prize for the most original costume, and second prize in that division went to Miss Gay Patterson, Oak Park, Ill., a member of the hillbilly gang. Barfoot, wearing a long beard and carrying a fiddle, she was known as Mountaineer Jake. She and the other girls in her group, armed with shot-guns, jugs of corn "likker" and corn-cob pipes, came into the dining hall singing "She'll be comin' round the mountain when she comes."

An orchestra provided music for dancing during and after the dinner.

Fear Is Cause of Depression, Mill Workers are Told

Kimberly-Clark President Speaks at Annual Safety Conference

"Fear is the cause of the current recession and until it can be removed there can be no substantial recovery," F. J. Sensenbrenner, president of the Kimberly-Clark corporation, said at the banquet last night of the third annual Kimberly mill and community safety conference at the Kimberly Club house.

Governor Philip LaFollette, who was scheduled to speak at the banquet, was unable to attend because of illness, it was announced.

Sensenbrenner termed the present economic situation "so serious that every person should discuss it from a patriotic standpoint and not from that of partisan politics."

Gone back to the depression that followed the 1929 stock market crash, the speaker discussed the causes that gave rise to fear.

Values Destroyed

"There was a destruction of values over night," he said. "This caused new buildings to be deferred until business and industry could see in the future more clearly. This hesitancy spread to the employed who were then began to be out of work. They curtailed their buying and this aggravated the situation."

The 1932 Democratic convention platform was sound enough for anyone to stand on, the speaker went on, and the administration soon began to carry out its plans. Confidence seemingly was restored and a small boom resulted. People always "buy on the rising market," Sensenbrenner asserted.

When the peak was reached, people stopped buying to work off the inventory. The situation had adjusted itself if left alone, but the administration then began introducing legislation of novel, new, untried nature and of far reaching import. This caused people to hesitate."

New Deal Measures

Discussing some of the legislation such as the NRA, AAA, cotton control, TVA and surplus profits tax, Sensenbrenner said that the administration in four years brought forth 33 major pieces of legislation.

Cotton control curtailed production of the crop to maintain a price of 12 cents a pound, he continued. This price was pegged so high that it stimulated production in other countries, he said.

Must Conserve

He said the TVA measure "is far out of step with economic policies of the past." The surplus profits tax was, he said, designed to force corporations to declare dividends out of profits in the hope of giving government more revenue and to distribute the wealth. Consideration was not given to the fact that business must conserve to carry over the depression years, he said.

"By 1935 and 1936 machines were worn out and supply and demand caused another rise in business," the speaker said. "This rise was too fast and in 1937 the peak again was reached. Again the situation was not let alone. The administration publicly denounced high prices and suggested remedies."

Operate 100 Per Cent

The Kimberly-Clark head told of the drive in business of various industries but said that the Kimberly-Clark corporation, with the exception of one machine at Niagara Falls, and several machines in its other mills for a short time while being rebuilt, has operated at nearly 100 per cent since 1933. This, he said, because the firm spent more than the depression reserve and part of earnings for new machines.

The policy of the company has been to run in mutual confidence, good products of reasonable prices and in cooperation of employees in getting capacity production without impairment of quality, he explained.

"With continued cooperation I am confident we can hold our own," he concluded.

Ernst Mahler, vice president, said large plants sometimes are idle because sand gets into the gears—not of machinery but of human relationship between the management and man.

Service Makes Work

"There is nothing magic about the working of an organization," he said. "It is the result of a lot of hard work and giving service. Service makes work and work makes pay."

He said "some people look too far ahead for something that is wrong, and if industrial leaders will look about their own back yard, perhaps there wouldn't be so much trouble."

Cola B. Parker, vice president, said physical safety is not the only safety with which a person should be concerned. New things must be tried, but in national life the path should be charted by methods tried rather than those untried, he stated.

S. F. Shattuck, vice president, declared that "teamwork" was responsible for the Kimberly-Clark mills operating continuously in spite of national laws and turbulent times while many others are averaging three and four days a week.

That the safety conference and exhibits were an example for other industries to follow was the statement of H. A. Klemm, Madison of the Wisconsin Industrial commission. He told the employees they should be proud of their record but that they should try to better it as "no record is perfect."

TALKS TO WORKERS

F. J. Sensenbrenner, above, president of the Kimberly Clark corporation, spoke on the "Depression" at the banquet last night of the annual Kimberly mill and community safety conference at Kimberly. Governor Philip LaFollette, who was scheduled to talk, was unable to attend the banquet because of illness.

London and Paris Will Issue Joint Appeal to Praha

Two Powers Also Will Send Warning to Berlin, French Report

Paris (AP)—France and Great Britain, fearful of a German-Italian "deal" to give Adolf Hitler a free hand in Czechoslovakia, have decided on an immediate, joint appeal to Praha and a warning to Berlin, French foreign office sources said today.

These sources asserted London and Paris had decided to urge Czechoslovakia to make utmost concessions to her Nazi minority and to warn Germany against committing any "action of violence" against the central European republic.

The representations, it was said, will be made within the next 24 hours—while Hitler and Benito Mussolini are conferring in Rome during the fuchser's state visit to Italy.

Combat War Threat

Foreign office circles said the decision came after receipt of diplomatic dispatches from Rome reporting that the Italian and German general staffs were studying a plan of action should France and Great Britain "react" after a German coup in Czechoslovakia.

Joint Franco-British representations in an effort to wipe out a threat of European war will follow decisions made by the French and British ministers at their meeting in London a week ago to arrange a common front in defense and foreign policy.

Sir Neville Henderson, British ambassador at Berlin, will see Field Marshal Hermann Wilhelm Goering, No. 2 Nazi and acting chancellor during Reichsfuehrer Hitler's absence in Italy, today, it was said.

Seek Nazi Compromise

The French and British ministers in Prague will call at the same time on the Czech foreign office.

Sir Neville will tell Goering, on behalf of France as well as his own government, these sources said, that a conciliatory settlement of the Sudeten German problem will be possible only if German Nazi leaders bring pressure on Czechoslovakia Nazis to compromise with the Prague government.

They said he would reiterate France's determination to fulfill her military alliance with Czechoslovakia in case Germany attacks her and also British Prime Minister Chamberlain's warning that Britain would find it difficult to remain passive in such case.

Minton Assails Magazine For 'Subtle Propaganda' Against New Deal Bills

Washington (AP)—Chairman Minton (D-Ind.) of the senate lobby committee criticized the Rural Progress magazine today for what he called its "sugar-coated attacks" and "subtle propaganda" against administration legislative proposals.

Minton addressed his remarks to Maurice V. Reynolds, publisher of the Chicago magazine, who appeared as a witness before the committee.

Reynolds was questioned about the magazine's policies from the time it was organized in 1934.

Glenn Frank, editor of the magazine and chairman of the Republican party's national policy committee, volunteered to answer questions about the magazine's editorial policy, but Minton told him coldly he would be called to the stand if needed.

Free Distribution

Reynolds said the magazine was distributed free to 2,000,000 farm families in seven midwestern states.

He asserted it was "non-partisan" and non-political, and was founded because he and his associates saw a "need" for such a magazine.

The youthful, nattily-dressed Reynolds supplied the committee with the magazine's financial records. The investigators said the records showed losses of more than $700,000 during the magazine's last three fiscal years.

At Minton's request, Reynolds read specified excerpts from articles and editorials printed in the magazine between the time of its initial issue in 1934 and the present.

Measures Criticized

Several of the excerpts asserted the magazine's purpose was to serve as a "non-partisan" publication, and said its free distribution was made possible by revenue from advertising.

Several articles spoke unfavorably of federal legislative proposals such as the utility holding company bill, the wage and hour bill and the supreme court bill.

An article by Senator Borah (R-Idaho) expressed opposition to the supreme court bill, and another by Representative Pettengill (D-Ind.) discussed the possibility of dictatorial government in the United States.

When Reynolds had finished the excerpts, Minton referred to them as "propaganda," "opposition scheme" and similar terms.

"Your magazine has been a continuous objector to various proposals in congress designed to aid the welfare of the very people upon whom your magazine is foisted," he said.

"Not once have you espoused, or approved of any legislation pending in congress."

In response to a question from Minton, Reynolds said the magazine was not "bound by the political opinions of its contributors."

Frank's Pay Is $25,000

He told the committee that Frank, former president of the University of Wisconsin, received a salary of $25,000 a year as editor of the magazine, having taken the position last fall.

When Minton asked questions about articles and cartoons printed since Frank became editor, Frank arose in his place among spectators at the hearing and said that although the committee had "graciously" refrained from serving him with a subpoena, he would be "glad to answer any questions you may have about editorial policy."

"We will call you if we have any questions to ask you," Minton replied, and Frank took his seat.

Continuing their study of the magazine's financial records, the investigator said the books showed a loss of $237,000 from July, 1937, to March, 1938, making total losses of more than $900,000.

Schwellenbach (D-Wash.) took up the questioning. "How did you keep on printing," he asked.

"We put in additional capital, I suppose," Reynolds answered.

Most of the new capital, he said, was supplied by himself, his wife and "friends and acquaintances that thought it a worthwhile investment."

Find Paper Firm Guilty Of Union Discrimination

Milwaukee (AP)—A national labor relations board ruling finding the Nekosa Edwards Paper company of Wisconsin Rapids and Port Edwards guilty of charges of union discrimination, unfair labor practices, and refusal to bargain with employees was received today by N. S. Clark, regional director of the N. L. R. B.

The ruling, Clark said, was contained in a copy of the intermediary report filed by Trial Examiner Henry J. Kent, Washington, D. C., who presided at a labor board hearing at Wisconsin Rapids, Feb. 10-17.

Copies of the report and accompanying orders, mailed here from the Washington N. L. R. B. headquarters, have been sent to officials of the Nekosa Edwards company. Clark said. The company has 10 days to reply.

Ensembles, Duets, Quartet to Enter District Festival

Appleton High School Orchestra to Give Concert At New London

Two ensembles, a string quartet and a group of instrumental duets and solos will represent Appleton in the district solo and ensemble festival at New London Saturday, according to Jay I. Williams, director.

Appleton representatives were selected by the director in a series of tryouts over a period of several weeks. The ensembles will be the only class A groups entered in the festival.

Because Appleton's music groups are reputed to be the best in the state, arrangements have been made for a 40-minute concert at 7 o'clock Saturday evening at Washington High school. A mass band of 150 first place solo winners from Class A and B schools also will perform in the evening.

Milwaukee Chief Urges Courtesy By Traffic Police

Madison (AP)—Joseph Kluchsky, chief of the Milwaukee police department, told the annual state safety conference today that the policemen who resort to "bawling out" a traffic violator does more harm than good.

He said such expressions as "who the hell do you think you are?" have been supplanted in Milwaukee with a technique emphasizing courtesy and telling the motorist what he did that was wrong—but giving him a ticket nevertheless.

"Rudeness of untrained traffic officers, especially as shown to women and accident violators, is resented by citizens," Kluchsky said. "Such a situation has in some instances caused a contempt for the law and its enforcement officials and makes the task of enforcing the law increasingly difficult."

"Some officers assigned to traffic duty have adopted the wrong attitude toward traffic violators—treating normally law abiding citizens as though they were dangerous criminals."

Mr. H. L. Davis
General Manager
Appleton Post-Crescent
Appleton, Wisconsin

Dear Mr. Davis:

After checking over sales for the first five days of our Ward Week event, we are pleased to learn that Ward's have already broken two records. Because of the fact that we used twelve pages of advertising in the Post-Crescent to open this event, we thought that you would be interested in knowing what has taken place.

Our opening day, a week ago, set a new high record for all Ward Week opening days. Even more significant, however, is the fact that last Saturday, April 30, was the biggest day in the history of the Ward Appleton store. Both the number of sales and the dollar volume substantially exceeded any previous day's business.

While we feel that the values offered at Ward's were responsible for pleasing customers who visited our store, we also must give full credit to the Post-Crescent advertising that was so effective in presenting the story of Ward Week to people in this shopping area. Our decision to use such a large amount of space was based on our previous results from Post-Crescent advertising. The remarkable records being set by Ward Week more than justify our viewpoint.

With thanks for your cooperation, we are Very truly yours,

MONTGOMERY WARD

Manager

Record- Breaking Advertising.*

Brings Record-Breaking Sales!

Ward's Success Proves That There is Plenty of Business to Be Had by the Stores That Go Out to Get It!

There may be a law of diminishing returns in newspaper advertising, but we haven't yet encountered it here. On Tuesday, April 26, Montgomery Ward's Appleton store used a twelve page section of advertising in the Post-Crescent, starting the section with an attention-compelling full page in color.

On Wednesday, April 27, Montgomery Ward's Appleton store experienced the best opening day of any sale ever held by the concern. On Saturday, April 30, the store BROKE ALL EXISTING RECORDS FOR VOLUME OF SALES ON ANY ONE DAY.

It took excellent values and timely merchandise to make such business volume possible. IT ALSO TOOK THE RIGHT KIND OF ADVERTISING TO MAKE PEOPLE CONSCIOUS THAT SOMETHING WORTH WHILE WAS TAKING PLACE AT WARD'S. That's where the Post-Crescent comes in.

Ward's success proves that there is plenty of business to be had in the Appleton area - proves that people will buy when you offer what they want at the prices they can pay AND TELL THEM ABOUT IT FORCEFULLY IN THE POST-CRESCENT.

Ward's additional six page section in the Post-Crescent of Tuesday, May 3, further proves the confidence that Wards put in Post-Crescent advertising. Every retail firm in this vicinity that is going places in 1938 is of the same opinion.

* - Ward's 12 page advertisement is the largest that has ever appeared in the Post-Crescent.

Menasha at Appleton.

THE Fox River Valley Baseball league, which operated last year as the Northern Valley league will pry the lid off the 1938 season Sunday afternoon with four games. The circuit boasts eight clubs this year. Last season it operated with six.

The outstanding game is expected to take place at Little Chute where Neenah, last year's champion, will take on the Little Chute A. A. team, a new entry. Manager Billy Handler of Neenah will have Lefty Jerome, Schultz or Menning on the mound with Christofferson doing the receiving.

Little Chute is planning a gala program for the opener. John Van de Yacht, village president, will toss the first ball with Gordon Schepp, president of the athletic association, catching it—if he can. The community band will be on hand to enliven proceedings.

Manager Harvey Hartjes of the Dutchmen will start Marvin "Dago" Schuler with Lefty Wildenberg and Guerts ready to do the rescuing.

Menasha Polish Falcons will invade Appleton for a contest with the Becher Tavern team at the W. Spencer street grounds. The Falcons boast a gang of sluggers and a top-notch hurling staff in Abe Brokup, Buzanowski and Freddie Kozlowski. Herb Kozlowski will handle the big mitt.

Appleton will have Earl Van Vonderen and Manager Wally Murphy for mound duty with Eddie Krause behind the plate.

Grand Chute will be at home to the Kaukauna Brewers. The Chutes will be under the sponsorship of Emery's Bar and Herb Wickesberg will be the manager. Harold Van Ryzin has been selected to hurl and Don Huhn will do the catching.

Kaukauna will have Ray Dierick, Vanderzanden or Giesbers on the mound with Mathis, Block or Van Zeeland catching. Kaukauna is a new entry and will have a young club showing three high school stars. Manager Walter Kilgas has high hopes for his charges.

Green Bay Thomas Druggs will be host to the Oshkosh Cubs in the other games. Green Bay will have the same squad that showed last

Sunday's Games
Waupaca at Neopit.
Manawa at Shawano.
Weyauwega at New London.

MANAWA—Opening games in the Wolf Valley baseball league Sunday, May 8, will find Waupaca at Neopit, Manawa at Shawano, and Weyauwega at New London.

The Indians, playing host to a veteran Waupaca outfit managed by Jerry Nelson, have taken a new lease on life under the leadership of Joe Dodge, former Milwaukee Brewer, and are certain to be permanent contenders from the very first. Many improvements have been made at the Neopit grounds, the team is said to be stronger than in several years, and something of a gala celebration has been planned for the opener.

Shawano is another team that will start better organized, perhaps, than any other club in the circuit. Louis Born is manager of the Badgers and he has rounded up an imposing array of home talent which formerly played on foreign diamonds. With the Waupaca and Manawa lineups somewhat unsettled it is probable that the two Shawano county teams will make their 1938 debut with a pair of victories.

The New London entry in the Wolf Valley league, managed by A. Baier, will be composed entirely of home boys, most of whom have played on successful American League teams the past few years. Their opener against Weyauwega will be watched with interest, as the battle will bring together two of the youngest teams in the loop. Weyauwega is managed by Mike Miller.

California Sportsmen Ask Von Cramm Release

San Francisco—(7)—A group of California sportsmen, including world amateur tennis champ Don Budge and Joe DiMaggio of the New York Yankees, today demanded immediate release of Baron Gottfried Von Cramm, Germany's No. 1 net star, from a Nazi concentration camp.

Von Cramm was arrested several weeks ago, supposedly on a morals charge, but the accusation has not been fully explained. The sportsmen in a letter criticized the "dark secrecy" of Nazi officials and asserted the charges were "mere subterfuges."

Weather Stalls Winning Sreak of Minneapolis

Minneapolis—(7)—Minneapolis, which had a chance to increase its three game winning streak or better its American association standing since it pounded out seven home runs against Louisville last Sunday, will try again today.

Teams now interested in the loop are Two Rivers, Manitowoc, Little Chute, Sturgeon Bay, Clintonville, Green Bay and Sheboygan Marinette, Shawano and Menomonie, Mich., are other possibilities.

The next meeting of the league will be June 29 at Little Chute at which time deposits of $10 on franchises will be received. A schedule probably will be drawn.

Boston Park Has First Display of Fisticuffs In 18 Years of Baseball

BOSTON—(7)—The first fistic outbreak at Fenway park baseball crowd has witnessed in 18 years incited the Detroit Tigers to come from behind and defeat the Red Sox, 7 to 5, yesterday in the series finale.

After the sockers pounded over four runs against Vernon Kennedy in the fifth, fiery Ben Chapman took a third strike. When he questioned Umpire Joe Rue's judgment, George Tebbetts, the Detroit catcher, taunted him. The players then engaged in a heated verbal exchange, during which Chapman challenged Tebbetts. The latter ripped off his mask and grappled with Chapman. Umpires separated them and expelled both.

Last Battle in 1920
The last physical clash staged here was back in 1920 when Umpire George Hildebrand, now retired, clubbed Bob Shawkey with his mask.

The quartet of Boston runs resulted from Jimmy Fox's fourth homer of the season, a 450 foot drive over the left field wall with two on. Doc Cramer's triple, Joe Cronin's double, singles by Joe Vosmik and Pinky Higgins and Kennedy's wild pitch.

The Tigers, who registered one run in the first of the fifth, added two more in the sixth when Hank Greenberg and Rudie York drove successive homers over the left field barrier. They tied it up in the seventh when Fritz Ostermuller gave them a pass, a sacrifice and a single and pulled ahead in the eighth after Greenberg singled ahead of York, who blasted a second drive over the left field fence. Ostermuller retired in the seventh when the Tigers pulled into the deadlock and Kennedy was relieved by George Coffman in the ninth.

Joe DiMaggio and Tommy Henrich each hit his third homer of the season.

Lawrence Will Show in Four Races, Special Events

COE IS FAVORED

Leete to Compete in High Hurdles but Not In High Jump

SIXTEEN Lawrence college tracksters left this afternoon for Beloit where this evening they will attempt to give other middle west schools a battle for honors. However, the Vikes have no designs on first place; they hope only to do better than a year ago.

Whatever hopes the squad had for taking honors went by the boards when Coach A. C. Denney apprized the men of the competition they would meet and pointed out that several schools in Illinois and Iowa have been at track a much longer period and therefore are more advanced. Denney has picked Coe or Grinnell to be the leader.

Medley Strongest Squad
Denney is entering four relay squads and while he has hopes for all of them, he expects only the medley to crash through. The race depends largely on the ability of the half miler and miler, Denney points out, and with Grode running the former and Schubert the latter, the prospects are excellent. Graf will start the race by sprinting the 220 and Buesing will take care of the 440.

The 440-yard relay team also may accomplish something. The squad will show four men running 110 yards each. And as the Vikes have four pretty fair sprinters in Cochran, Vande Walle, Buesing and Graf, Denney sees the quartet well among the leaders.

The Viking mentor hasn't decided on the makeup of his half mile relay team. He has nominated Graf, Cochran, Vande Walle, Gerlach and Cape but who he'll scratch is a question. Each man will run 220 yards and with Graf scheduled for a big afternoon he'll probably be pulled out of the event.

Gerlach, Lockery, Vande Walle, Cape and Bridges have been nominated for the mile relay which means one will be dropped for the event shows four men running a quarter mile each. Bridges probably is the slowest but Vande Walle may be withdrawn because of the many events in which he's entered. Reports from Beloit are that the races probably will be run in heats with the best times determining the places.

Leete in High Hurdles
Lawrence will be represented in all the special events except the pole vault. Sam Leete and Stevens will show in the high hurdles unless Leete's knee bars him. He injured it Wednesday in the dual with Ripon. Leete will not compete in the high jump. He holds the relay record of 6 feet, 1 inch set last year and is not showing be-

Methodist Men's Club Decides to Sponsor Cub Pack

Action Follows Talk by Rev. R. R. Holliday On Organization Aims

New London — The Methodist Men's club voted at a meeting last night to sponsor a junior Boy Scout cub pack in the church. Leaders will be named soon by Phil Court, club president, to begin organization.

The action was taken after a talk by the Rev. R. R. Holliday, scoutmaster, explaining the organization and purposes of the cub pack. The pack is for boys too young to be Boy Scouts, from the ages of 8 to 11 years, and boys are ranked as Wolves, Lions or Bears until they become old enough to enter regular Boy Scout work. Chosen cub leaders will be trained by the Valley council at Appleton, the Rev. Mr. Holliday said. The club also voted to sponsor a softball team in the Older Men's league this summer.

The club members entertained their wives at a ladies' night on last night and the Rev. G. N. Doody of the Baptist church at Waupaca was guest speaker. His subject was "Why People Don't go to Church."

Entertainment was provided by high school musicians playing solo contest numbers. They were Marjorie Miller, soprano; Gertrude Ploetz, French horn; Richard Deming, flugelhorn; and Wilton Quant, baritone. The club's trio also was heard, consisting Elton Jeffers, Beckman and Phil Court.

AUTO MOTOR PROPELS HOME-MADE AIRPLANE

Here is a picture of Harvey Blue, Jr., of Dale, seated in his home-made airplane with which he climbed to an altitude of 8,200 feet Sunday. Blue's plane is propelled by a 1930 Model A motor and cost about $125 to build. Spare time work over a period of two years was required to complete its construction. (Post-Crescent Photo)

Dale Youth Soars 8,200 Feet in Home-Made Plane

Soaring 8,200 feet above sea level in a home-made airplane, buffeted by strong spring winds and hearing that wind whistling through the struts may not be fun for the boy pilot but to Harvey Blue, Jr., of Dale it spells accomplishment.

Blue, an amateur aviator with an active interest in anything that flies, started building his plane about two years ago and last Sunday took off from the county airport and climbed to 8,200 feet before leveling the plane for its maiden flight.

Built of home-made materials during spare time, the plane is propelled by a model A Ford motor with the ignition supplied by a magneto. No batteries are used in the plane.

The plane's motor is a 4-cylinder type from a 1930 car and is water cooled. Instead of the usual ailerons which control a plane on its longitudinal axis, the entire wing surfaces act as ailerons and are connected directly to the control stick.

Another departure from orthodox plane construction methods is the single-spar fuselage, a single beam running the full length of the plane and constructed of spruce and plywood. The fuselage covering encircles the beam and is of No. 1 muslin doped with aircraft and aluminum powder making it water proof.

The plane's wing spread is 26 feet and its overall length is 18 feet. Blue estimates its cost at $125 without labor. Its top speed is 50 miles per hour and it may be landed at 45 miles per hour. The craft uses about three gallons of gasoline per hour at top speed, about 30 miles per gallon.

The propeller is a spruce beam carved and shaped by Blue, who maintains that his craft is entirely home-designed with a minimum of borrowed ideas. His method of wing control is almost unique and he says he has "heard of only a few planes here and there which used that method of control."

Blue hit the headlines in early March when he established what is believed to be a record for gliders in Wisconsin. He stayed in the air for 41 hours with his home-made glider near High Cliff. His interest in airplane was born about eight years ago when he built a primary glider with a 32-foot wing spread.

Permission Granted For Pheasant Brooder House in Hatten Park

New London — Permission was granted by the park board last night for the erection of a pheasant brooder house and running pen at the Hatten Memorial park by the New London Fish and Game club. Members of the board and directors of the game club studied possible sites at the park yesterday afternoon.

Work will be started Monday according to Art Lasch, game club president, and it is expected the unit will be completed by the end of next week to be ready for the shipment of 500 day-old chicks from the state conservation department. When ready, the birds will be released in this area.

The brooder and pen will be located about 500 feet west of the swimming pool, just inside the park road skirting the western section of the project.

Preliminary details towards opening of the swimming pool also were discussed by the park board.

Those who attended were Shirley, Alice and Elaine Jepson, Carol Malliet, Mona Lehman, Carol and Margaret Paul, June and Delores Brice, Jeanette and Frances Lorge, Adrienne Mares, Mary and Irene Gabrielson, Kathleen and Mary Lou Rebmam, Norma Moriarity, Rosanna Lorge, Ruth Young, Mary Wied, Vera Konrad and Peggy Hurley. ## Weyauwega Man Conquered Gales, Thirst and Cold in 22 Years on Ocean Vessels

Weyauwega—"For eight days I had nothing in my head but a blacksmith pounding on an anvil and I haven't touched another drop of rum for almost fifty years," is the wry reminiscence of Helmut Ziepkke, 76, native of Germany and a retired farmer at Weyauwega, who wouldn't care to live again the 22 years he spent as a young man on sailboats and steamers in every part of the world.

"We were just cakes of ice when they rescued us after our ship had foundered on a reef off the coast of England during a storm in the dead of winter," Ziepkke recalls, "and when the life-saving crew finally did get our men ashore we were almost dead. They filled us up with rum and kept us in a drunken condition for eight days in a row trying to stave off pneumonia. I guess they probably saved our lives, but I wish a rum had never been invented."

This is but one of the many experiences related by Mr. Ziepkke, who now tends a little garden and keeps house for his strapping son, Max, in a quiet residence on a side street here. He is happy and contented, and has few fond memories of the sea or any desire to return to Germany, "except maybe for a visit."

"I was 14 years old when I sailed on my first ship," the old German relates. "I signed up as cook on a tiny two-master, which had only three sailors besides myself. We made a voyage of a month from Stolpmunde, Germany, to Sweden and return, and when I got back home I handed my mother the $3.75 I had earned as wages."

"The only money I had for myself on that first trip was what I recovered from a butcher who bought bones and hides from animals we had killed for meat on board ship. I bought a pipe and some tobacco and was a hero among all the boys in the neighborhood. The biggest wage I ever did get on any boat was $26 a month."

After leaving school at the age of 14, Ziepkke lived on the sea practically all the time for the next 22 years. He signed up as cook during those first few voyages, and then became quartermaster. Sailboats were his home for 16 years.

Several reels of motion pictures from the library of the state conservation department will be shown. Those selected for projection are "Wisconsin's Whitetail Deer," "Pike Propagation," "Three Rivers of Wisconsin," a scenic film taken on the Flambeau, Brule and Wolf rivers, and "Game Birds of Many Nations," a film in natural color.

The annual white bass run in the Wolf river took hold here yesterday with many fishermen reporting catches of the full limit and many others averaging half a dozen good specimens in a short time. Only a few anglers have renewed an enthusiastic attack on the river so far.

Spring Game Will Close Zephyr Grid Practice Monday

Fred Picard, Bill Resch Will Head Teams Chosen by Coach Miller

Menasha — St. Mary High school gridgers will close their spring training with a scrimmage under game conditions Monday at the Seventh street park. Coach Marvin Miller has divided the squad into two groups with Bill Resch heading one and Fred Picard leading the other.

The two groups staged a lengthy contact scrimmage in the drizzling rain and cold at the Seventh street park Thursday. The Whites, the team captained by Picard, will have Picard and Day at ends, Lingnolski and Bevers at tackles, Hoks and Dubzinski at guards and Tuchscherer at center. In the backfield there will be James Eckrich at quarter, Koerner and Mayefski at halves and Foth at fullback.

The team captained by Bill Resch will have Hoks, Eugene Laux, Resch and Schuler in the backfield. The line will consist of Bill Coenen and Brehm at ends, Berling and Kraft at tackles, Roth and Pozolinski at guards and Prunuske at center.

Reserves for the Picard team are Niles, Bayer, Koss and Huelsbeck while the reserves for the Resch team are John, Wagner and Gambsky.

Coach Miller has attempted to divide the squad as evenly as possible. Members of the team and two-year lettermen have not been practicing and as a result will not get in the game Monday.

In the practice Thursday the two squads were given turns in attempting to advance the ball the length of the field in five downs. Often the players missed their assignments but Bill Resch and Eugene Laux drove nicely for the orange flag, each getting away several times.

Koerner bore the brunt of the attack for the Picard team. Although fairly light, he is fast and drives hard for yards. Lingnolski went into the line on defense but several times was pulled back to the fullback post on defense. He drove hard and is surprisingly fast for a big man but fumbled and did not pick his holes.

The St. Mary squad has been practicing with as much vigor as the opening game were a week away. The team will meet the Terrors of Appleton High school in the opening game next fall.

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington—When business men get together for the annual meeting of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, they usually hear in the addresses the things they like to hear and most of them want the administration denounced or the Wagner act nullified or the regulatory power of the government curtailed.

The feelings which prompt such a point of view are understandable, because business faces this year a difficult time in making ends meet or in keeping the red ink from splashing even more extensively than it did in 1937. But when it comes to appraising the effects of the Wagner measure insofar as measuring progress toward a desired result is concerned, the one thing that is usually lacking is a practical program of getting the result sought.

Thus the Wagner labor act is a case in point. Many of the speeches denouncing the labor board or the labor board in them some justifiable assertions, but, on the other hand, it is a strange thing that no labor leader was on the program. Nor was there any representative of the National Labor board present to refute the criticisms. Hence many of the delegates went away with a one-sided impression of the labor board controversy which doubtless many of them had before the meeting began.

Points of Criticism

As for the labor board itself, the speeches of criticism run to two points—the board is biased and unfair to employers, or else it is provoking more and more labor strife instead of working for labor peace.

What many of the critics of the board fail to understand is that the Wagner act is a one-sided affair to begin with, in the sense that it is a measure concerned solely with the rights of the employees. The labor board merely interprets and enforces the law as it stands.

Judging by the high percentage of cases in which the labor board has been sustained by the courts, the board has interpreted the law within the scope of the congressional mandate to the board. Mistakes in procedure have been made by the board's trial examiners and some serious mistakes in judgment, indicating an economic or social bias which ignores impartiality in a strictly judicial sense. But these mistakes are subject to correction by the federal courts and already there are signs that the supreme court of the United States will safeguard the citizen's rights when they are transgressed by these quasi-judicial boards and commissions.

Attacks on Board

Attacks on the board may be a natural outgrowth of the bitterness of feeling engendered by the numerous decisions that have been rendered, but the real bombardment should be turned on the act and not on the board. Many persons have the misconception that the law permits the board to act as a conciliator. It is really the legal representative of the labor unions of the United States in matters of collective bargaining or unionization. It has no power to correct abuses as between organizers and non-union workmen or as between employers and employees. The sad part of it is that there are representatives of the labor board throughout the country who know they are being used as levers in strike situations and often in the midst of negotiations, but they are powerless to reject requests for elections or investigations when filed by workers or their organizations, especially when a prima facie case of law violation has been made.

It has been reported that even President Roosevelt told callers recently that he realized that the Wagner act needs amendment. The employers want it. Some labor leaders want it. Then why isn't it done? Simply because labor's strength in congress is such that an effort to amend would get but a handful of votes unless the labor unions agreed in advance to the changes.

Need Cooperation

Opposed as is the A. F. of L. for instance, to the present board's decisions in certain cases and to some provisions of the present law nobody in the A. F. of L. will ceter let the influence of the national organization be used to break down the Wagner act. Business men should know that little can be accomplished by merely denouncing the Wagner act or the board, although the agitation no doubt has its educational features in emphasizing abuses that are being practiced in the name of governmental

Name Landig Head of Rod, Gun Club Mixer

Neenah—Francis Landig has been named chairman of the entertainment committee for the Twin City Rod and Gun club mixer dance June 13. Landig will submit detailed plans for the mixer at the regular club meeting Tuesday night, May 31.

Prizes for the first annual membership drive will be awarded at the May 31 meeting and a discussion on the questionnaire sent out by the state conservation department will take place.

The club will hold a general meeting June 17 for the purpose of recommending fish and game regulations for the coming year and election of delegates to the annual meeting at Madison at which the commission acts on the county committee suggestions will be held.

Engraving Firm, Workers Settle Labor Argument

Parties Involved in Dispute Accept Compromise at Menasha

Menasha—A state labor board hearing into charges filed against the Northwestern Engraving company by the Appleton Photo Engravers union, No. 77, came to an end yesterday afternoon at Menasha city hall when officers of the company and representatives of the union agreed to a compromise suggested by Carl Marsh, examiner.

The compromise entails recognition of the union as sole bargaining agency for union wage scale and 40 hours work spread over a 5 1/2 day period.

Charges of coercion and union intervention were withdrawn and one of the men allegedly dismissed because of union activity will be reinstated.

The agreement will be effective May 9 and continues to Dec. 31, 1938.

Arthur Kruse Fined for Passing Traffic Signal

Neenah—Arthur Kruse, 147 Third street, Neenah, pleaded guilty of driving through a traffic light at the intersection of Wisconsin avenue and Commercial street and was fined $1 and cost when arraigned this morning before Justice Caylord C. Loehning. The defendant was arrested this morning by Neenah police.

authority. What can be accomplished toward revision of the Wagner law depends on cooperation between fair-minded business leaders and fair-minded labor leaders.

This simple proposition appears to have been recognized by one of the outstanding men of the business world, Lewis E. Pierson, chairman of the board of the Irving Trust company of New York and at present president of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States.

"I believe the time has now come," he is quoted as having said, "when management and labor should work together on those things of common interest which fairly protect their respective interests, promote industrial peace and stimulate employment, on which the enduring prosperity of the nation depends."

Business Men Cautious

Mr. Pierson called on management and labor to join in a program of cooperation, but it is an interesting sidelight on how cautious business men feel they have to be about such a step that the former president of the chamber made it clear he was making the statement on his own responsibility and not addressing it to specific groups. His declaration can be construed, however, as a friendly gesture in reply to the American Federation of Labor's pronouncement "along the same line on the previous day."

Certainly it would appear that leaders representing the chamber and other business men's organizations could sit down together with the executives of the American Federation of Labor and work out a program of changes in the Wagner law which congress would accept as a forward step in labor relations in America. That's the only way amendment or revision will ever come.

cers now either dead or no longer with the company.

Morrison described one of his superiors, the late Halford Erickson, vice president and former state railroad commissioner, as a man "who liked to work alone," adding that he was often "unfathomable." He said neither Erickson nor J. J. O'Brien, deceased, president of the firm, ever took him into their confidence further than to say the money was for the requirement of utilities.

Expressed Concern

On one occasion, when Morrison expressed concern over the "acquisition of properties" account, Morrison quoted O'Brien as saying, "don't worry Matt (Morrison) we'll see you through."

Morrison testified it was his understanding that the money would be paid back eventually.

"I had great faith in Mr. O'Brien," Morrison said, "and I had never known him to do anything wrong." Upon further questioning, however, he admitted his faith "diminished somewhat when the money was not paid back."

Questioned concerning $13,500 paid to William M. Dinneen, former secretary of the public service commission, Morrison testified he did not know the purpose of the payments but did know that Dinneen was connected with the public service commission.

"Might Be Wrong"

In answer to further questions by Spohn, Morrison said the disbursement did not "necessarily create a severe mental reaction in his mind" because "Dinneen in his capacity as a private citizen of Wisconsin might have known about properties to be acquired."

"It might be a little wrong, but not grossly wrong," Morrison said. "Not a teeny bit wrong?" Spohn asked.

Well, it might be misinterpreted. I think you are doing that now, Mr. Spohn, Morrison replied.

Answering Spohn's questions concerning the money used by the company to pay stockholder's claims, Morrison testified he did not believe suits were directed against the directors themselves, but against the company, and that it was "correct" for the company to pay the claims.

Spohn said one action against the company charged the officers had taken an illegal profit from an inter-company transaction, and held that this was a claim against the officers which was settled with corporate monies.

Morrison said he asked his superiors six or seven times concerning the acquisition account, but was assured everything would be "taken care of." He said the disbursements were written off finally and charged to the surplus account.

He told Spohn several times he

Former Byllesby Officers Fails to Give Funds Data

Says He Cannot Shed Light On Expenditures of Over Million

Madison—(4)—Special State Counsel William H. Spohn contended before the banking commission today the reorganization of H. M. Byllesby and Company, utilities investment concern, starting in 1936 was only "a shuffling of officers and directors among affiliated concerns."

He made the charge at the commission's inquiry into the firm's business practices which a state witness said were a "little rare."

Spohn seeks revocation of the company's security license because of some $1,000,000 in unexplained expenditures from 1937 to 1939.

The company claims the practices of the officers at that time are too remote to be material to the question of a license for 1939.

Spohn said today the management was substantially the same as in 1927 to 1930.

Madison—(4)—M. A. Morrison, former vice president and treasurer of H. M. Byllesby and Company, utilities and investment firm, testified at a banking commission inquiry yesterday he could shed no light on company expenditures of more than $1,000,000.

Special State Counsel William H. Spohn is seeking revocation of the firm's securities license, claiming the company failed to designate the purpose and ultimate recipient of the disbursements. The company has taken the position the purported payments were authorized by officers now either dead or no longer with the company.

did not believe he could name a living person who could explain the purposes of some of the disbursements. Directed through a list of those who received the payments, Morrison answered in substantially the same manner—that payments were made at the request of superior officers who supplied no information as to the purposes. Recipients of the payments, Spohn said, included Samuel Kahn of San Francisco, $169,000; John F. Forbes, $254,000; A. W. The Story So Far: Judith Good-lee marries self-made Reuben Oliver for his money, only to discover he is bankrupt. Twins are born. Then red-headed Cissy Rogers, who loves Reuben and is out to get him, finds a job for him in a lumber camp managed by Gary Brent—the man Judith loves. Gary insists that Judith get a divorce, telling her that Reuben is going to marry Cissy. Then he discharges Reuben.

Chapter 40
The Old Feud

Reuben would be home tonight! What would they say to each other? Gary did not notice Judith's silence. Scowlingly he kicked a loose stone from the path, sent it whirling down the hill. He said, as though to himself, "Civilization is a great thing. Left to my own inclinations I'd have killed Oliver this afternoon."

She stared at his darkly frowning face. She had never seen Gary angry before. It was not a pleasant sight. "What happened?"

"Before I went away I gave orders for 200 pines to be felled and shipped from the left ridge. They had been sold, the money collected."

Savagely Gary kicked loose another stone, lost in his own irritation.

"Well?" Judith prodded.

"When I went to the ridge this morning, the pines were still standing."

"Still standing?" she echoed parrot-like.

"Oliver's orders." Rage shook Gary's usually well modulated voice.

"Reuben's? Was he left in charge?"

"Certainly not!"

"I don't understand—"

"He has the men bluffed into believing he knows more about trees than the Lord who made them."

Tonight Reuben would be home. "He has made insubordination in the camp before," Gary continued. "I've stood it for your sake. Today, his hand in its English glove clenched, 'I drove him off the reservation as I would a mad dog.'"

She felt embarrassment. "I can't understand why he would disobey orders."

"He thought to make trouble for me with Galbreath—the founder."

She still didn't understand how disobedience to orders could help Reuben with Galbreath but she did not argue about it with this new, darkly frowning Gary.

He said: "Oliver has had Curtis using his influence to try to oust me."

"Gary—are you sure?"

"Of course, I'm sure!" Gary's usually fine, clipped English was blurred and harsh, "Oliver has his nerve to think he could hurt me!"

She had no words. She who venerated honor, who had sacrificed her life to her conception of it. "Let's not waste another thought on him, Judith. Let's talk about us. There can be no shilly-shallying. This is the end—Gosh—if you knew how I hate your belonging to him! Don't lose your courage tonight, Judy. Get everything washed up thoroughly and quickly. Wish I could be in on it!"

Judith managed a smile.

Judith studied him in turn. Brown, taut as a bow string. He didn't appear a bit crestfallen. She said: "Jobless—again."

The handwriting has been on the wall for some time. I didn't tell you because I had to worry you."

She removed her red beret, flung it on the table. His composure angered her. "If you knew, why did you wait to be discharged?"

"Need I remind you that my only source of income—"

"Yet you deliberately disobeyed orders?"

"You know about that too?" His voice chilled several degrees.

She seated herself in the nearest chair: "I know about everything."

"Just what do you know?"

"I know," nothing could stop her now. She was caught in the landslide, even as Reuben had been caught in it on the night of her coming to this camp. "You did not have the pines felled as Gary told you, I know you have been work-

Jaces Popularity Queens Contest to Open May 28

The jaces popularity contest, which will be sponsored by the Appleton Junior Chamber of Commerce will open May 28 and run to July 2.

Young unmarried women from 16 to 27 years of age inclusive living in Appleton or outside the city but within its trading area are eligible.

There will be two popularity queens, one from the city and one living in its trading area, two second and two third prize winners on the same basis. The winners will receive a 10-day all expense trip to Bermuda, the second prize winners a week's Great Lakes cruise to Toronto, Canada, and the two third place winners jeweled wrist watches valued at $100 each.

Residents of Appleton and vicinity will vote for candidates with ballots obtained at any of the 50 or 60 Appleton stores cooperating. A merchant participating in the contest will give his customers 100 votes for each $1 purchase, 50 votes for each $1.50, and so on.

Each Store A Precinct

The votes will be placed in boxes provided in each store. Merchants may obtain their votes at the Appleton Junior Chamber of Commerce headquarters which will be open after noon of the contest in the lobby of Hotel Appleton.

The queens will be crowned and the other winners honored during a mammoth parade July 4, the jaces have announced. The crowning will be one of the features of the Half the Life of the Nation Civic celebration the jaces will sponsor at Erb park July 2, 3, and 4.

A thorough description of the trip which the queens will take to Bermuda has already appeared. Now let's see what the second place winners will do on their Great Lakes cruise.

They will leave Appleton by rail at 7:45 on a Saturday morning, bound for Chicago. Reaching that city about noon, they will embark at 4:30 in the afternoon for Mackinac Island on the SS North American, arriving at the famed summer resort at 2:30 Sunday afternoon.

3 Hours At Mackinac

They will have three hours in which to tour the island and will take the boat at 5:30 in the afternoon, reaching Midland in Georgian Bay at 10 o'clock the next morning.

At 1 o'clock that afternoon they will leave on a voyage taking them to Detroit, Cleveland and finally, at 7:30 Wednesday morning, to Buffalo. They then will transfer to a bus for Niagara Falls.

Arriving at the falls about 9 o'clock, the two girls will have until late afternoon to see the famous honeymoon rendezvous. They will be taken to Queenston by bus, and from there to Toronto by boat, reaching the Canadian metropolis at 8:15 Wednesday evening.

Provided with a spacious room in a luxurious hotel, the girls will have until 8:30 Saturday morning to explore Toronto. They will leave the city by train, reaching Chicago at 8:10 Saturday night and Appleton at 2:42 Sunday morning.

Arbor Day Observed by Rural School Students

Pupils of the Wide Awake school, town of Greenville, recently observed arbor day by raking and cleaning up the school grounds and planting flowers. A marshmallow roast was held and games played. Gerhard Springstro, Fredrick Jahnke, Eileen Weyenberg, Roland Garing, Robert Jahnke, Lois Jean Plamann and Earl Springstro were neither absent nor tardy at the Highview school last month. Arbor day was observed Wednesday at the school, the pupils planting trees and cleaning the grounds.

"You needn't bother—"

"It's a pleasure," with exaggerated politeness.

Accident Claims Hit New High in State Last Year

Compensation Paid in 25, 140 Industrial Cases. Commission Reports

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
Madison—If the number of compensable industrial accidents is a criterion, Wisconsin industry in 1937 had completely recovered from depression.

The state industrial commission today made public a summary of workmen's compensation which dis-closes that in 1937 more industrial employees received indemnities and medical aid as the result of industrial accidents than in any other year of the 26 year old workmen's compensation system.

A total of 25,140 employees, whose injuries necessitated a loss of 2-844,305 working days, were paid $3-
733,359 in indemnities and $1,128-
761 in medical assistance. This compares with a previous high figure of 22,630 in 1929.

The sudden increase in the number of compensable accidents is attributed to the change in the law providing a three day waiting period instead of seven, which became effective in 1931. Because many of the basis industries, which account for the bulk of industrial injuries, were not recovering from the depression slumps until a year or two ago, the change was not immediately reflected in the number of injured employees.

193 Fatal Cases
The total number of cases was divided as follows: fatal cases 193; permanent total disability 12; permanent partial disability 1,968; temporary disability 22,977.

During the last 10 years Wisconsin's accident compensation system has paid benefits to 194,337 industrial employees who were injured at work. Low point was in 1933, also a low point for employment, when 14,563 Wisconsin employees received benefits.

Detailed local summaries prepared by the industrial commission show that the Fox River Valley counties reported substantial numbers of the total cases, as follows:

County	Cases	Cases	Paid
Brown	730	2	$61,836
Outagamie	523	5	$60,887
Manitowoc	508	4	$57,164
Winnebago	878	7	$103,741

Calumet county reported a total of 103 cases, whose indemnities totaled $16,875, Waupaca 223 for $16-889, and Shawano 250 for $26,729.

86 Plumbing Inspections Made During Last Month

A total of 86 inspections was made by George E. Gaulsin, city plumbing inspector during April, according to his monthly report.
There were 40 roughing inspections, 8 furnace inspections, 10 final inspections and 28 sewer inspections made during the month.

Permits issued during the period included: nine for sewer repairs, 17 for water service, seven for heating jobs, twelve for new sewers and eighteen for plumbing. A total of $93 was collected in fees during the month making a total of $233.59 since Jan. 1.
